Superintendent's Message

ANCIENT MYTHOLOGY is the religion of a primitive people beautifully portrayed. This ancient theory included myths regarding the creation of the world, myths explaining the making of man, myths of sin and punishment, illustrative and explanatory myths. Many prominent writers have used these mythical stories and references for illustration and beauty.

A new civilization through human ingenuity has fathomed the mysteries of the universe and has unfolded and interpreted the natural laws of the true God and man. Stories of the beautiful Minerva, a Roman Goddess of Wisdom and Education; Apollo, the God of the Sciences and Arts; Venus, the Goddess of Beauty; Achilles, bravery; Penelope, faithfulness; and others, representing friendship, happiness, health, justice, love, music, peace, purity, strength, and youth, adorn educational halls, symbolizing and emphasizing these great life virtues in their true relationship with the better life.

Youth today must say to the world that peace and good will among men is the greatest philosophy of life. Our school slogan might well be, "Living the life better that we will have to live anyway." This, of course, may be done through thorough preparation and cultural background. May youth always uphold the highest ideals of the true life, serving and sacrificing for the true God.

MR. MARVIN M. FOWLER

Business Manager, Durham City Schools

To the Friends of Education

The Durham schools realize now, even as they will realize in all the years to come, the courage, the vision, and the foresight which you have displayed in supporting the school supplement in this present crisis. You have preserved for us those opportunities and possibilities which have been enjoyed by our predecessors—a privilege denied so many schools in North Carolina.

Only through the combined efforts and determination of such loyal friends as the City Board of Education, parents, teachers, alumni, and civic groups have the high standards of our schools been maintained.

We, as students of Durham High, hope that our future achievements may stand as a perpetual memorial to you and to your faith in us.

Sincerely,

BENJAMIN SHAMBAUGH HORACK,
President of the Student Body.

TO THOSE CITIZENS OF DURHAM WHO HAVE, THROUGH THEIR GREAT LOYALTY AND UNSELFISH SERVICE, MADE POSSIBLE THIS AND OTHER STUDENT UNDERTAKINGS, THIS PAGE IS GRATEFULLY DEDICATED.

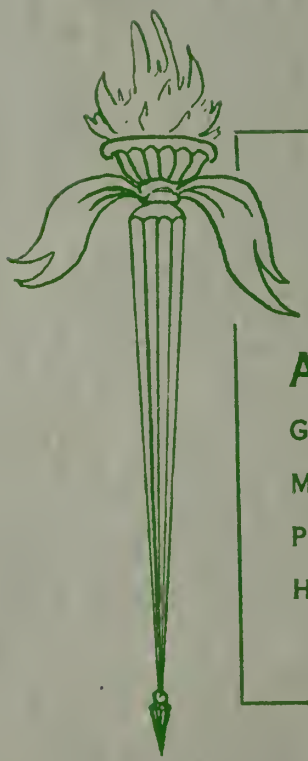
FACULTY



AT TWILIGHT THE GODS ASCENDED THE MILKY WAY TO JOVE'S PALACE WHERE THEY HELD THEIR DAILY COUNCILS.

CAPP

To the Faculty

The Light of Knowledge, lit so long ago
Amid the ancient peoples of the earth,
Borne and made brighter through the passing years
By those who saw and recognized its worth—
A light to banish shadows, and outshine
The dark'ning fears of ignorance and doubt—
Handed to us by those whose wisdom has Taught us to face the Dark that is without.

Principal's Message

THE MYTHOLOGY of a race is a timeless product of the folk-mind, a long-range representation of the spiritual or emotional experience of a people. It is therefore, perhaps, a more reliable indicator of the developmental capabilities of the race than are the factual or intellectual accomplishments of outstanding individual scientists or philosophers,—prophets of "culture," pilots who, by increasing "knowledge, increase sorrow," and who tow the racial craft from its wonted moorings out upon a high sea of storms and uncharted perils where thinking supplants dreaming and realism stifles ideals.

Socrates saw in the outstanding mythological characters of the Greek deities a clothing with personality of the accepted virtues and vices of an ancient people and moved to a high plane of genuine reverence in the vision.

May we profitably tarry for a while in this skeptical age of shallow intellectualism and dwell for a space apart as we turn these pages in the atmosphere of Greek mythology, in the realm of the heart and soul and simple faith and beauty, unmindful of the crassness and impotence of to-day's materialism, children for a while in a mythical land where yonder mountain top is Olympus and the golden sunset beyond industrialist smokestacks is the couch of Endymion.

BOOK III

CLASSES

ON MOUNT OLYMPUS THERE REIGNED THREE SUCCESSIVE KINGS OF GREAT MIGHT.

CHANGAMI

High on the crest of cloud-peaked Olympus,
When Time's vast eternity first began,
There—amid slumbering thunder—
Did Uranus take Gaea to wed.
Heaven and Earth were they,
And their will was the law of the universe;
They peopled the earth with their offspring,
The Cyclops, the Titans, the Monsters.
There was discord among the deities,
Destruction and strife among men;
Barren were the fields of earth,
Scarce was there beauty in heaven.
Then arose Cronus, the crafty,
And slaughtered Uranus, his sire;
He seized for himself the scepter,
For himself, and for Rhea, his queen.
Then on the earth there were harvests,
And fruit-bearing trees, and ripe grain;
But for the rule, there was conflict,
And Cronus contended with blood.

Yet did his youngest, great Jupiter,
Victorious, ascend to the throne;
Beside him reigned Juno, the regal,
Juno, the goddess of air.
Then there was peace and great happiness,
Then flourished music and art,
Then did the earth's meadows blossom;
Men became heroes, and gods ruled supreme.
Thus did the might of Olympia's gods
Increase through the ages;
Each dynasty grew, till at length
Mighty Jupiter, lord of the heavens,
Reigned there forever with Juno, his queen.

PRIDE BROWN
Treasurer

WENDELL WINGATE ADAMS

Blackwell Literary Society 4; Civics Club 4; Hi-Y 2, 4; Commercial Club 3.

Wendell, called "Winkie," aspires to hold a government job and, in all probability, he will do so quite successfully.

WILLIAM DORSEY ASHLEY

Julian S. Carr Literary Society 2, 3, 4; Commercial Club 2, 3, 4; Home Room Secretary 3, Treasurer 3.

"Pleasant" and "friendly" are words which aptly describe Dorsey. His inexhaustible supply of chewing gum only adds to his popularity, just as his habit of dressing well adds to his charm.

GEORGIA LEE BANE

Commercial Club 2, 3, 4; Needlework Guild 4; Basketball 2.

Georgia's ambitions are very big for so small a person, but her ability is such that no one will be in the least surprised to learn that she has more than attained her goal.

HARVEY CLYDE BARBEE, JR.

Nature Study Club 2; Walter Hines Page Literary Society 3, 4; Stamp Club 3, 4; Football Co-Manager 3; Baseball Manager 3; Hi-Rocket 4.

Harvey's sense of humor and ready wit are somehow combined with a vast supply of energy. He is a valuable supporter of all worth while undertakings.

MARY YULITA BARBOUR

Lila Markham Brogden Literary Society 3, 4; Art Club 4; Needlework Guild 3, 4; Handicraft Club 4; Volley Ball 3, 4; Basketball 3, 4; Track 3, 4.

Mary's interests are widely varied—she really "does things." It shouldn't be at all hard for her to find a promising position as a nurse when she starts work on the outside.

MARTHA WOOD BECK

Lila Markham Brogden Literary Society 3; Basketball 3; Home Room Treasurer 2; Southgate Literary Society 4; Art Club 4, Secretary 4; Library Council 4; Needlework Guild 3, 4.

Martha has been nicknamed "Rose Bud," possibly because of the color of her hair, more probably because of her quietness and charm. Her artistic nature will be a decided asset to her as an interior decorator.

CELESTIA GRAY BISHOP

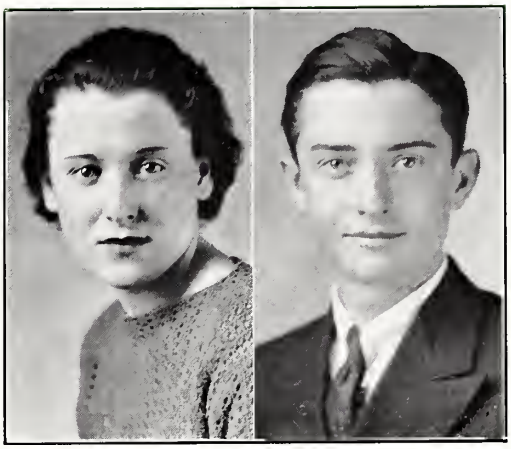
Lila Markham Brogden Literary Society 2, 3, 4; Library Council 4, Vice-President 4; Track Team 2, 3, 4; Needlework Guild 3, 4; Senior Play Cast.

Besides being the outstanding track star among the fairer sex—a modern Atalanta—Celestia is a good student and a popular one. She likes chewing gum, and surprises us all by wanting to be a doctor.

DAVID PAUL BOND

Baseball 3, 4; Blackwell Literary Society 2; Hi-Rocket 3.

David does not shout his plans from the housetop, but he has a certain tenacity which, combined with the many ideas that accompany his silence, will be a great boon to him in later life.



JAMES MONROE BORDEAUX

Blackwell Literary Society 4; Home Room President 2; Orchestra 4; Band 2, 3; Commercial Club 2, 3, Cabinet 3; Senior Play Cast.

Monk—the quiet chap with the friendly grin! He could probably give us all a course in "How to Make Friends in Ten Easy Lessons." In addition, he knows more than a little about oboes and oboe-ing.

NELLIE BARBEE BORDEAUX

Mixed Chorus 2, 3; Commercial Club 4.

When we hear someone say "Nellie Bordeaux," we immediately think of a tall, tall girl with immeasurable pep and an unusual amount of friendliness. These attributes will go far toward making her a successful beautifier of the homelier persons of future years.

BEATRICE ELAINE BOWEN

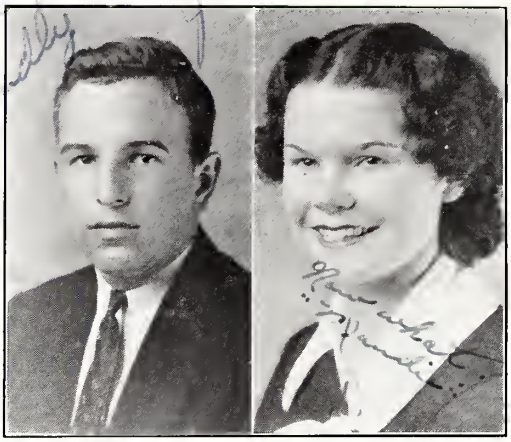
Athena Literary Society 3; Needlework Guild 4; Commercial Club 4.

Beatrice wants to be a nurse, and her character falls well in line. She is a conscientious worker and a pleasant companion —both necessary attributes of the successful nurse.

EDWARD E. BOWEN

Coöperative Class 2, 3, 4.

The spirit of the Coöp Class has become traditional. Ed is one of those who have helped to make it so. His loyalty, coöperation, and enthusiasm have done more than a little to uphold the Coöps' standards.



JAMES BALLARD BRAME

Baseball 2, 3, 4; Walter Hines Page Literary Society 2, 3, 4; Home Room President 3, Vice-President 4; French Club 3, 4; Hi-Rocket 4; Monogram Club 3, 4; Hi-Y 4.

J. B. is an important person around Durham High, for his talents are so outstanding that he naturally takes the lead in any venture.

MAUDLENE BRANCH

O. Henry Literary Society 2, 3, 4, Treasurer 3; Needlework Guild 3, 4; Commercial Club 2, 3, 4; Hi-Rocket 4; Basketball 3.

A pretty face, a brain that comprehends, and an enviable outlook on life—all these are a part of Maudlene. Her natural attractiveness assures her popularity; her kindness and generosity will hold the friends which she wins so easily.

SUSAN CAROLINE BREEDLOVE

French Club 3, 4; Needlework Guild 2, 3, 4; Cornelia Spencer Literary Society 2, 3, 4, Vice-President 4; Home Room Vice-President 3; Class Day Exercises 3; Tennis 2, 3; Volley Ball 2, 3; Track 2; Basketball 2, 3; Hi-Rocket 3, 4; Editorial Board 4.

If one word were chosen to describe Caroline, it would probably be versatile—she is a leader in every sense of the word.

FRANCES MARKHAM BRIGGS

Home Room President 3, 4; Senior Class Vice-President 4; Lila Markham Brogden Literary Society 2, 3, 4; Needlework Guild 2, 3, 4; French Club 4; Hi-Rocket 2, 3, 4; Tennis 2, 3, 4, Basketball 2, 3, 4; Volley Ball 3, 4; Track 2, 3, 4; Class Day Exercises 3.

As an athlete, Frances stands head and shoulders above the rest; as a student, she is "top-notch"; and as a friend, she is ever loyal.

MARVIN BROCK

Nature Study Club 2; Commercial Club 3, 4.

Tall, gangling, pleasantly grinning, Marvin goes easily through life. Glumness is unknown to him and to those about him, for his sense of humor is acute, his cheerfulness never-ending.

BENJAMIN JOHNSON BROGDEN, JR.

Home Room Treasurer 3; Carmichael Literary Society 2, 3, 4, Treasurer 4; Monogram Club 2, 3, 4; Boxing 2, 3, 4.

Ben's wit and personality have become well known in Durham High; his easy-going attitude has become a by-word. He is another who will not be easily forgotten.

RAY BROOKS

Orchestra 2, 3, 4, Walter Hines Page Literary Society 2, 3, 4, French Club 3, 4, Home Room President 2, Hi-Rocket 2, 3, 4, Headline Writer 4, Music Contest 3; State Music Contest 4, Commercial Club 4.

Ray Brooks—the thinker, the musician, the idealist. His high standards are ever worthy of emulation.

CHARLES VERTIO BROWN

Stage Committee 3, 4; Cooperative Class 3, 4, Treasurer 4; Commercial Club 4.

Charlie is not one to clamor for a place in the limelight, but he possesses those traits of character which make us all feel that he more than deserves to fill one.

PRIDE CINCLAIR BROWN, JR.

Home Room Treasurer 3, 4, Treasurer Junior Class, Treasurer Senior Class, Blackwell Literary Society 2, 3, 4; Hi-Rocket 2, 3, 4; Track 3; French Club 3; Commercial Club 4.

"Mr. Treasurer"—that means Pride. He has wheedled an amazing amount of money out of his fellow-students in the last three years. The fact that we let him do so is proof enough of his popularity and ability.

WILLIAM HAROLD BROWN

Carr Literary Society 2, 3, 4, President 4, Vice-President 3, Secretary 4; Home Room Vice-President 2, Secretary 3; Phy-Chem Club 4.

Harold's willingness to serve, his loyalty, and his friendliness are only a few of the admirable traits which make his character so fine.

FRANCES CATHERINE BRUCE

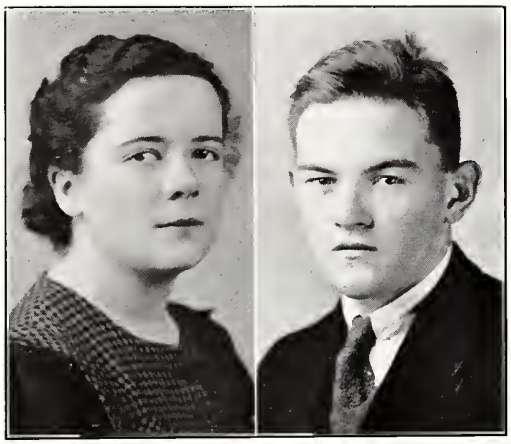
Southgate Literary Society 4, Needlework Guild 3, 4, Art Club 4, Treasurer 4.

Efficiency and dependability are, perhaps, the most outstanding traits of Frances' character. The outcome of a piece of work assigned to her is never doubtful—it will be done, and done well.

WILLIAM LYTTLE BRYAN, JR.

Walter Hines Page Literary Society 2, 3, 4, Phy-Chem Club 4, Hi-Y 3, 4, Treasurer 4.

Ambitious Billy sets his goal high, but he should not have any difficulty in achieving it. It will not be long before he will be seen as an aeronautical engineer, working in a field where discoveries are still to be made.



MARY FRANCES BUCHANAN

Cornelia Spencer Literary Society 2, 3, 4, President 4; French Club 3, 4, Secretary 4; Needlework Guild 2, 3, 4, Director 3, President 4; Hi-Rocket 2, 3, 4, Literary Editor 4; Class Day Exercises 3; Home Room Secretary 2, 3, President 4; Student Council 4; Senior Play Cast.

Her vivid personality and her great capacity for making friends are largely responsible for Mary Frances' unrivaled success as a leader.

WILLIAM GILBERT BURKE

Walter Hines Page Literary Society 2, 3, 4; Football 4.

William is one person who sticks doggedly at whatever he undertakes and sees the venture through to the end. He wastes little time on cumbersome details, but goes after the essentials.

WILLIAM ERNEST BYRD, JR.

Boys' Chorus 2, 3, 4; Mixed Chorus 2, 3, 4; French Club 4; Home Room Secretary 4; Hi-Rocket 4; Orchestra 2, 3, 4; Chapel Marshal 3, 4, Captain 4.

Frank, determined, and fearless. Ernest should make an excellent heart specialist. The road will not be an easy one, but, with his sterling qualities, he will undoubtedly obtain his M.D.

MARY PAULINE CABLE

O. Henry Literary Society 2, 3, 4; Needlework Guild 2, 3 ,4; Commercial Club 2, 3, 4; Hi-Rocket 4.

Polly fairly bubbles over with mischief and gayety, for she fortunately possesses a fun-loving, alert personality.

TYRUS BLAIR CANNADY

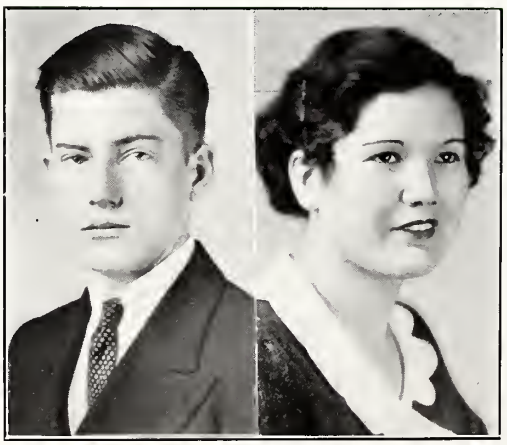
Boys' Chorus 2, 3, 4; Mixed Chorus 2, 3, 4.

A songbird that fishes! Here is one who does just that, and wants to become a business man besides. With these varied activities and his intense interest in all that goes on about him, Tyrus will find that he possesses all the characteristics of a real man.

CLEO FAY CARPENTER

O. Henry Literary Society 2, 3; Needlework Guild 3, 4.

Cleo's reserved manner, efficiency, and ready smile will make her ambition to be a nurse quickly realized. Even though she is a little shy, she has what it takes to succeed.



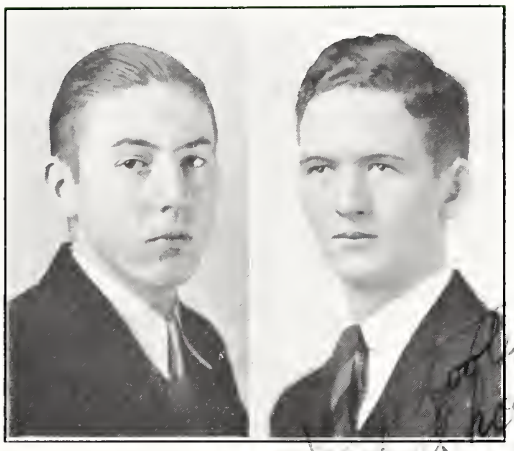
WILLIS G. CARPENTER

Willis hunts now, but for amusement's sake only; when he gets through college, he'll start hunting seriously—for a job! Having found one (and he hopes that it will be connected with the government) he will certainly be a credit to his employers.

WILLIS THOMAS CARPENTER

Orchestra 2, 3, 4; Julian S. Carr Literary Society 2, 3, 4; Band 2, 3, 4; Commercial Club 4; Hi-Y 4; Wood Wind Ensemble 4.

Willis is one of those wise-cracking musicians who is a great boon to any orchestra's morale. He is a fine clarinet player, one of Mr. Twaddell's mainstays, and will certainly be missed next year when he goes on to further heights of learning.



SENIORS

DOROTHY FRANCES CHEEK

Cornelia Spencer Literary Society 2, 3, 4; Needlework Guild 3, 4.

Dorothy's hobby is dancing, and more than one young gentleman have made dancing with Dot a hobby of theirs. Her eyes could easily be the subject of a long rapturous description. Let it suffice to say that not many males can stand up against that "Come-hither look!"

Here's to a swell boy! Dot.

DORIS RAY CHESTNUT

Cornelia Spencer Literary Society 3, 4, Secretary 4; Commercial Club 4; Readers' Club 3; Hi-Rocket 3, 4; Needlework Guild 3, 4, Home Room Treasurer 2, Vice-President 3; Senior Play Cast.

We all know Doris—gay, amusing and full of life, yet always excelling in both scholarship and leadership. We shall not easily forget the friendliness and cordiality which have endeared her to us all.

LILLIAN WREATH CLAPP

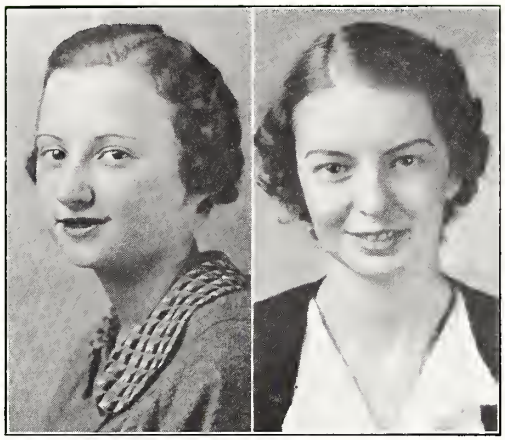
Commercial Club 2, 3, 4; O. Henry Literary Society 2, 3, 4; Art Club 4; Messenger 4; Needlework Guild 4.

Wreath's ambition is to be a famous artist. She should aspire to nothing less, for with her artistic ability and determination there is no obstacle which could block her way for long. Someday we'll be buying Rembrandts, Whistlers, and Clapps.

FLOYD RUPERT CLARK

Coöperative Class 3, 4; Nature Study Club 2.

Floyd's enthusiasm for manual training extends into other fields as well, as do his originality and ability. He is the Beau Brummel of the Coöp Class, and a dashing one at that.



MARION CHRISTINE COLEMAN

Lila Markham Brogden Literary Society 3, 4; Commercial Club 4; Girls' Glee Club 3; Mixed Chorus 3; Home Room Vice-President 3.

Although Marion is a "little bit," her willingness, good nature, and sweet voice more than make up for her lack of height.

MARY FRANCES COPLEY

Lila Markham Brogden Literary Society 4; Needlework Guild 2, 3, 4, Director 4; Girls' Chorus 2, 3, 4; Library Council 4; Home Room Secretary 2.

If the beauty, charm, and efficiency of its nurses has anything to do with the success of a hospital, there is not one in the country which will not be clamoring for "Blondie's" services.

EDNA RUTH DANIELS

Home Room Secretary 2; Commercial Club 2, 3; Cabinet 3; Southgate Literary Society 2, 3, 4.

Ruth goes after all her work with a great deal of interest, and, needless to say, she reaps a full reward. On the side, she collects souvenirs.

LILLIAN DOVIE DAVE

Commercial Club 2, 3, 4; Needlework Guild 3, 4; Basketball 3; Athena Literary Society 2, 3, 4, Secretary 4.

Lillian has one main ambition—to be five whole feet tall. The goal is always just ahead and little Lil keeps hoping. Just ask the Athena Literary Society members if she isn't a great "L'il Girl."

GEORGE SIWARD DAVIS

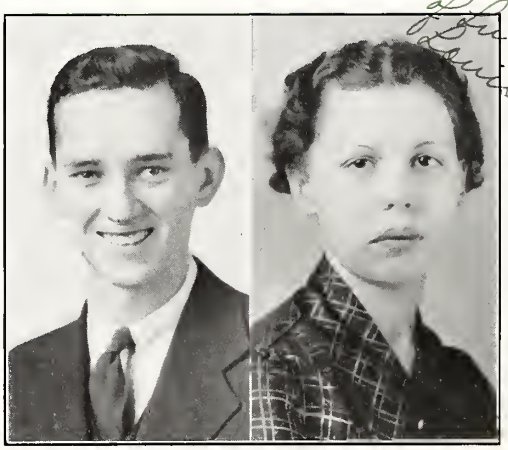
Walter Hines Page Literary Society 2, 3, 4; Stamp Club 4.

George's ambition is to be a gentleman, but it seems to us that this aspiration has already been fulfilled. Needless to say, he is a popular young man.

VIRGINIA LOUISE DOSS

Commercial Club 2, 3, 4; Needlework Guild 3, 4; Lila Markham Brogden Literary Society 2, 3, 4; Art Club 4.

Once having known Louise, one always desires to see more of her. Her natural sweetness and her friendly attitude are doubtless responsible. Whatever the secret may be, we like her a lot.



ANNIE RUTH DURHAM

Commercial Club 2, 3, 4; Music Club 2; O. Henry Literary Society 2, 3.

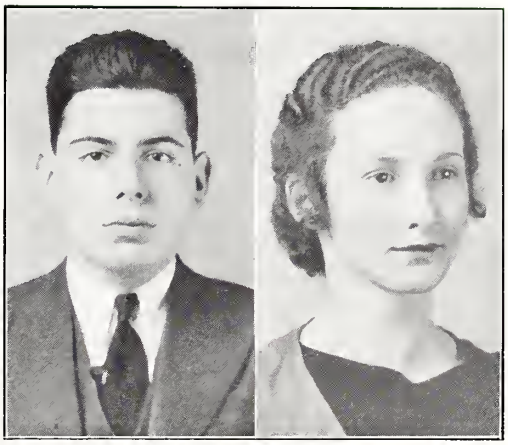
Annie Ruth's ready coöperation in any and every undertaking is one of her most outstanding traits, but she possesses others which are equally admirable—and many of them.

RUTH LEE DURHAM

Cornelia Spencer Literary Society 2, 3, 4; Needlework Guild 3, 4; Volley Ball 2; Basketball 3, Senior Play Cast.

Ruth is a girl who possesses sufficient dignity and poise to catch one's eye when she walks across the room. Besides, she knows when to work and when to play and is particularly adept at both.

Joe and Irene
"Bernstein."



BERNARD EZRA DWORSKY

Page Literary Society 2, 3, 4; Aycock Debating Team, 4, Alternate 3; Hi-Rocket 3, 4; Phy-Chem Club 3, 4, Treasurer 4.

Bernard's a great talker, but he turns his conversational inclinations to a good purpose, for he plans to be a lawyer. He has had debating experience which should prove valuable in later years. On the side, he is an enthusiastic chemist.

ROBERTA CLYDE EDWARDS

Cornelia Spencer Literary Society 4.

Clyde possesses every characteristic that helps to make attractiveness and charm—a clever mind, a jolly disposition, a smile that further adorns her face. Her few months with us have been sufficient to win for her a host of life-long friends.

FREDERICK ANTHONY EDWARDS

Football 2; Walter Hines Page Literary Society 2, 3, 4; Kiwan Club 2; Civics Club 4, Vice-President 4; Band 2, 3, 4; Science Club 2; Hi-Y 2, 3; Home Room President 2, 4, Vice-President 2, 3; Glee Club 2, 3.

Fred is an easy-going individual, not particularly energetic, but ambitious enough. He is a likeable person and one whom we are glad to have known.

GELALIA MAE ERWIN

O. Henry Literary Society 2, 3, 4, Secretary 4; Needlework Guild 3, 4; Commercial Club 4; Music Club 2.

This tiny bit of attractive femininity is truly amazing. Even while holding high to the ambition to become a dietitian, Gelalia passes much of her spare time at basketball. And besides, she is musical.

VIRGINIA DARE EVANS

Home Room President 2, Vice-President 3, 4, Treasurer 4; Student Council 2; Lila Markham Brogden Literary Society 2; O. Henry Literary Society 3, 4; French Club 3; Needlework Guild 3, 4; Hi-Rocket 4.

There is yet to be a first honor roll list which does not include Virginia's name. The knack she has for learning is the envy of us all. But this ability is far from being her only "virtue."

MARY ELIZABETH FERGUSON

Athena Literary Society 2; Cornelia Spencer Literary Society 3, 4; Needlework Guild 3, 4; Mixed Chorus 2, 3, 4.

Our quiet and demure Mary Elizabeth wants to be a detective! She has certainly proved herself well-qualified for the position by searching for hidden answers in Math and by tracking down clues to difficult translations in French.

VANCE EDWARD FISHER

Julian S. Carr Literary Society 2, 3, 4, President 4; Commercial Club 2, 3, 4; Hi-Y 2, 4, Vice-President 4.

For the past two years Vance has been a leader in the Carr Literary Society. He has kept things going nicely, maintained a spirit of coöperation, and been a fine example for all the boys in the society.

JOHN ARTHUR FORLINES, JR.

Blackwell Literary Society 2, 3, 4, Treasurer 4; Commercial Club 2, 3, 4; Hi-Rocket 2, 3, 4; Student Council 4; Home Room Treasurer 2, Vice-President 3, President 4; Basketball Manager 4.

Good Old Johnny! Despite his happy-go-lucky attitude, he has succeeded in accomplishing a great deal. He managed the basketball team to perfection, for he put his heart into the task.

EDWARD LEE FORTUNE

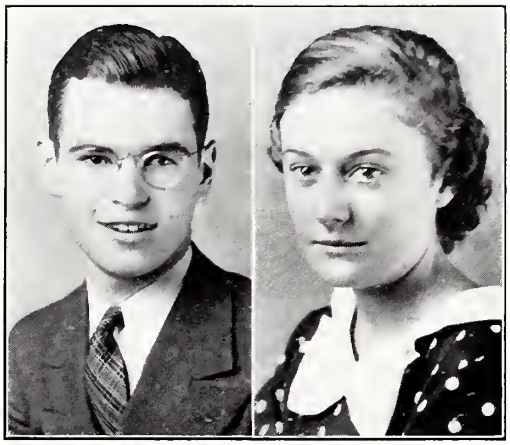
Julian S. Carr Literary Society 2, 3, 4; Hi-Rocket 2; Football 3, 4; Wrestling 2, 3.

One remark from Ed and everyone present feels a hundred per cent more cheerful. Few situations arise of which he cannot see the funny side, and, aided by great natural wit, he easily points out the humorous aspects to those about him. Ed's spirit and attitude are worthy of praise.

JAMES WALLACE FOSTER

Blackwell Literary Society 2, 3, 4; Hi-Y 3, 4; Commercial Club 3, 4; Home Room President 2, 3; Student Council 2, 3.

Wallace is quiet, but he is, as well, a conscientious worker and the possessor of an optimistic outlook on life. He manages somehow to keep even Mr. Holton guessing, and that is quite an accomplishment.



WILLIAM FRANCIS FRANCK, JR.

Home Room President 2, Treasurer 3; Hi-Rocket 2, 3, 4, Co-Business Manager 4; Page Literary Society 2, 3, 4, Treasurer 4.

The Class of 1935 contains many graduates with brilliant prospects, but none of whom we are more proud than Bill Franck. Bill is neither "foggy" nor doubtful when the time comes for quick-thinking.

ALICE VIRGINIA FRISBIE

Needlework Guild 3, 4.

Virginia is not lacking in that rather elusive quality known as personality. To teach music is her ambition—we could not think of a profession for which she is better suited.

BENJAMIN DIXON GADDY, JR.

Home Room President 2, Vice-President 3; Blackwell Literary Society 2, 3, 4; Mixed Chorus 2, 3; Football 2, 3, 4.

Dick's ready wit, cordiality, and optimistic outlook banish the blues for us all whenever he's around. And, beneath his gay exterior, there lies a wealth of character which makes his friendship a most valuable possession.

CHRISTINE McGEE GALLAGHER

Athena Literary Society 2, 3, 4; Needlework Guild 3, 4.

Perhaps we shall be forgiven if we again use the age-old adage "actions speak louder than words" in characterizing Christine. For we can think of no better description.

WALTER ROBERT GATTIS, JR.

Carmichael Literary Society 3; Blackwell Literary Society 4; Civics Club 3, 4, Treasurer 4.

Walter is a go-getter and, somehow, he always manages to get what he goes after. He has been called "a good guy" by more than one of us—and we'll stick by that story.

MARY LUCILLE GILLIAM

Mixed Chorus 2; Commercial Club 3, 4; Messenger 4; Cornelia Spencer Literary Society 2, 3, 4; Home Room Treasurer 3.

Though "Ciel" is rather quiet at times, there is a twinkle of mischief in her eyes which vouches for her personality. Romeos in general and one in particular will miss her when she is private secretary to Durham's most prominent business man.

JOHN GLASSON

Home Room Treasurer 2, Vice-President 3, President 4; Page Literary Society 2, 3, 4; Commencement Marshal 3; Hi-Rocket 2, 3, 4, Joke Editor 3, Co-news Editor 4; Phy-Chem Club 3, 4; Secretary Student Body 4; Student Council 4.

Glance at John's activities and you will know of his abilities. Ask any student about him and you will immediately hear of his popularity. Need we say more?

MARY ELIZABETH GULLEY

Commercial Club 2, 3, 4; Basketball 3; O. Henry Literary Society 4; Needlework Guild 4; Volley Ball 4.

If you hear a sudden burst of laughter in one corner of a previously quiet room, you may feel sure that it is Mary Elizabeth, unable to control her vivacity any longer. Blonde—we must say—and well-liked by us all.

SENIORS

HELON LOUISE GUNTER

Needlework Guild 2, 3, 4; Mixed Chorus 2, 3.

Louise is likely to succeed as an interior decorator, for she has studied hard and her application is assuring. Both her vocation and avocation lead to a success that spells contentment and happiness.

CLEONA L. HAITHCOCK

Commercial Club 2, 3, 4; Needlework Guild 4; Volley Ball 3, 4; Basketball 3; O. Henry Literary Society 4.

Cleona—the torch-singer. But that's in the future. Now it's Cleona—the chatterbox. And can she slay basketball? We wouldn't be at all surprised to see her a great Olympic star. Or is there an international basketball championship?

VIRGINIA FRANCES HALEY

Commercial Club 2, 3, 4, Cabinet 4; Southgate Literary Society 2, 3, 4; Treasurer 3; Needlework Guild 3, 4; Home Room Secretary 2, Vice-President 3, Treasurer 4; Basketball 2, 3; Volley Ball 3.

Virginia possesses more than her share of beauty and an inexhaustible supply of energy, which has made her one of the most popular young ladies in the Class of '35.

EVELYN CHRISTABELLE HALL

Lila Markham Brogden Literary Society 2, 3, 4, Secretary 3, Treasurer 4; French Club 3, 4, Treasurer 4; Needlework Guild 2, 3, 4; Library Council 3, 4, President 4; Hi-Rocket 4; Commercial Club 4; Senior Play Cast.

Red-heads generally attract attention, and Evelyn is no exception to the rule. But it is her outstanding list of achievements and her charming personality that one remembers, rather than the decidedly red coiffure which adorns her head.

Success to a good friend! Haynie

HAYNIE GIBSON HALL

Julian S. Carr Literary Society 2, 3, 4, Treasurer 2, Vice-President 4; Commercial Club 2, 3, 4; Art Club 2, 3, 4; Boxing 4; Coöperative Class 4.

Haynie is a sincere chap, and one who is straightforward and precise in all his doings. A fellow that sticks to a job will be our output when Haynie walks away with his well-earned sheepskin.

QUINTON A. HAWLEY

Blackwell Literary Society 2, 3, 4; Coöperative Class 3, 4, Vice-President 4; Commercial Club 4, Treasurer 4; Declamation Contest 2.

"Hawley's" oratorical gifts are famous about the school, but their fame does not surpass that of his willing spirit and friendly disposition. Needless to say, he is another of our "favorite Seniors."

HETTIE HORTENSE HENDERSON

Commercial Club 2, 3, 4; Needlework Guild 4; Home Room Secretary 2.

H. H. H.—hearty, handsome, happy-go-lucky. In other words, it's Hortense. She is another of the more successful secretaries of the future. Her efficiency, alertness, and pleasant disposition attest for that.

EUGENE PATRICK HENLEY

Commercial Club 4; Julian S. Carr Literary Society 4; Home Room Vice-President 3.

Eugene has shown a fine spirit in everything he has undertaken during his high school career. The knocks of life will not be very hard for this boy, who has trained himself to work and play so cleanly.

HELEN FRANCES HIGHSMITH

O. Henry Literary Society 2, 3, 4; Commercial Club 2, 3, 4; Needlework Guild 2.

Frances' constant congeniality has won for her a great many friends. A naturally quiet girl, she has worked steadily and well throughout her years in D. H. S.

ARTHUR ALTON HOBGOOD

Hi-Rocket 2, 3, 4, Co-Literary Editor 4; Blackwell Literary Society 2, 3, 4.

When better houses are built, our own Alton will plan them. Blue prints will cover his desk and customers will fill his office. His ability will see to the blueprints, his personality to the customers.

MARGARET JOHN HOLLAND

Cornelia Spencer Literary Society 2, 3, 4; Dramatic Club 2; Commercial Club 4; Needlework Guild 2, 3, 4; Volley Ball 3.

Margaret seldom causes much disturbance, but her natural charms and abilities make one thoroughly aware of her presence. She somehow manages to always do a little more than her share of the work, and to come out at the finish with an enviable list of accomplishments.

CORNELIA JANE HOLLOWAY

Home Room President 2, Treasurer 2; Cornelia Spencer Literary Society 2, 3, 4, Vice-President 3, President 4; Needlework Guild 3, 4.

Cornelia possesses an individuality which cannot easily be overlooked. We would not accuse her of overworking herself, yet she always manages to get her work done and to have a good time while doing it.

"Janie Ethel"

JANE ETHEL HOOPER

O. Henry Literary Society 2, 3, 4; Volley Ball 2; Basketball 3; Needlework Guild 3, 4.

Hello there, smile! Where's Jane? But lurking behind it somewhere she'll always be found, good natured, witty, and alert. Her enthusiasm and vivacity fairly bubble over. And we have yet to see her when she wouldn't be a friend.

With best wishes. G. C.

GORDON CARLYLE HOPKINS, JR.

Blackwell Literary Society 4.

Eureka! We have found it —a delightful personality combined with a gentleness of manner and natural quietness. And G. C. is its possessor. His hobby is athletics; his ambition electrical engineering. A well-rounded gentleman, we'll say.

BENJAMIN SHAMBAUGH HORACK

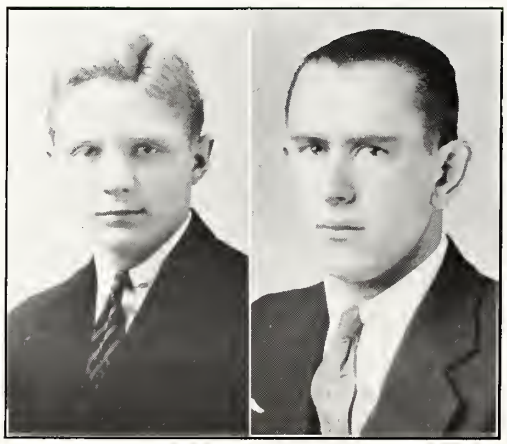
President Student Body 4; Student Council 2, 3, 4; President Sophomore Class; President Junior Class; Walter Hines Page Literary Society 2, 3, 4, Secretary 3, 4; Hi-Rocket 2, 3, 4, Editor-in-chief 4; Stamp Club 3, 4, President 3, 4; Football 3.

It is hard to believe that Ben's list of offices is correct, but it is. And with that record back of him and with keen ambition for the future, there'll be no stopping or forgetting him.

EDWIN HUGHES HUDSON

Coöperative Class 3, 4; Commercial Club 2, 3, 4; Nature Study Club 2.

If you don't think Ed is one hundred per cent for the Coöp class, just ask him; if you don't think the fellows are one hundred per cent for Ed, ask them.



IVA LOUISE HUGHES

Commercial Club 2, 3, 4; Athena Literary Society 4; Needlework Guild 4.

If "silence is golden," Louise possesses the wealth of kings. Being of a naturally gentle nature, she depends largely upon her actions to prove to the world that she is a true gentlewoman.

FREDERICK BARRINGTON HUNTER

Art Club 2, 3, 4; Basketball 2, 3; Baseball 3; Football 2, 3, 4.

Fred is really an artistic genius, who has been a great help to Mrs. Mason's art classes. His fine character and pleasant appearance will be great boons to him when he enters his life work as an artist.

FLORENCE JAFFE

Athena Literary Society 2, 3, 4; Commercial Club 2, 3, 4; Tennis 2; Coroso Play, 3, 4; Aycock Preliminary 3; Needlework Guild 3, 4; Basketball 3, Messenger 4; Home Room President 2, Vice-President 2.

Flossie aspires to be a second Greta Garbo. We can easily imagine her attaining this goal, for we have seen her act and we recognize her charm.

GEORGE TYREE JONES

Student Council 3; Home Room President 3; Julian S. Carr Literary Society 2; Football 2, 3, 4, Captain 4; Civics Club 3, 4.

The class of '35 will not soon forget the football team of that year—and, remembering it, how can they forget Tyree? He possesses all those qualities which are necessary to a football captain and to a leader in life as well.

BERNARD KATZ

Julian S. Carr Literary Society 2, 3, 4; Football 3, 4; Track 4; Monogram Club 3, 4.

"Bernie" is a husky, strapping fellow with a powerful build, who takes the knocks as they come. His perseverance stands out, for he can stick to a job and drive his way to the finish.

JAMES ROBERT KING, JR.

Walter Hines Page Literary Society 2; Carr Literary Society 4; Commercial Club 4.

Bob's love of music and his desire to be a pharmacist are an unusual combination, but we have so much faith in him that we predict success for him on any road he travels.

MARY FRANCES KING

O. Henry Literary Society 2, 3, 4; Commercial Club 2, 3, 4; Needlework Guild 2, 3, 4; Secretary Junior Class; Home Room President 3, Vice-President 4.

Mary Frances' most prominent characteristics are her light-hearted outlook on life in general and her amazing facility for making friends. No one can help being attracted by her winsome, lovable personality.

HENRY MAHLER KRAMER, JR.

Home Room President 2, 4, Vice-President 3; Student Council 4; Hi-Rocket 4; Boxing 3; Wrestling 2, Commercial Club 4.

One generally finds Henry quietly and persistently working toward whatever goal he has set before him, but there are times when he makes himself heard above the crowd. Here is a boy who knows when to work and when to play.

MARY ELEANOR KRUMMEL

Girls' Chorus 2, 3, 4; Mixed Chorus 2, 3, 4; French Club 3, 4; Readers' Club 3; Messenger 3, 4; Needlework Guild 3, 4; Athena Literary Society 3, 4, President 4, Treasurer 4.

Mary Eleanor possesses one of the loveliest voices that has ever added to the beauty of Mr. Twaddell's choruses. Music holds a charm for her; her singing charms us all.

NANCY ELIZABETH LAPRADE

Cornelia Spencer Literary Society 2, 3, 4; Hi-Rocket 3, 4, Exchange Editor 4; Needlework Guild 2, 3, 4; French Club 4; Basketball 2; Track 2.

Nancy's black curls are the envy of many a girl. There are more than a few of us, too, who would welcome a small share of the poetic ability which is hers.

PAULINE MAE LAWRENCE

O. Henry Literary Society 2, 3, 4; Needlework Guild 3, 4; Commercial Club 2, 3, 4.

Everybody likes Pauline, teachers and students alike. The teachers think her quiet and studious habits are the better part of her nature. The students haven't troubled to decide just what there is about her that does attract them—a good many things, we guess.

MAMIE INEZ LEATHERS

O. Henry Literary Society 2, 3, 4; Commercial Club 4, Cabinet 4; Mixed Chorus 2, 3, 4; Glee Club 2, 3, 4.

May your musical talent be as beneficial as your smile in helping you win the hearts of your kindergarten victims!

JACK BERNICE HENRY LEIGHTON, III

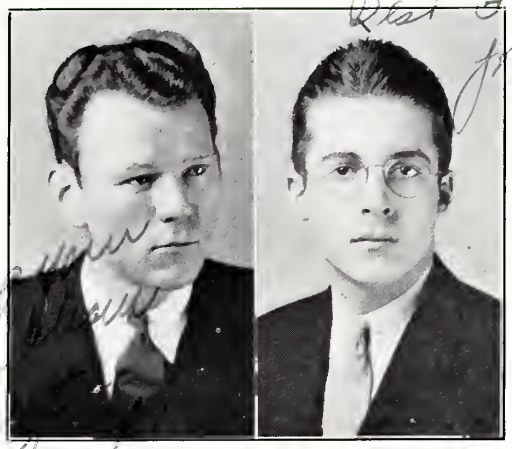
Home Room President 2, 3, 4; Student Council 2, 3, 4; Julian S. Carr Literary Society 2, 3, 4, Secretary 2, 3, 4; Civics Club 4; Track 2, 3; Boxing 2, 3; Monogram Club 3; Cheer Leader 3, 4.

Jack's flaming hair, incredibly good-natured personality, and his love of dancing serve to make the students flock around him. But these are not the only things that make him famous in Durham High.

JOHN LUTHER LENTZ

Football 4; Walter Hines Page Literary Society 3, 4; Hi-Rocket 3, 4; Home Room Vice-President 3; Mixed Chorus 3; Senior Play Cast.

A smile with every meal ticket! The two years that John has been with us have been sufficient to gain for him a schoolfull of admirers and friends.



LEONARD DANIEL LEVY

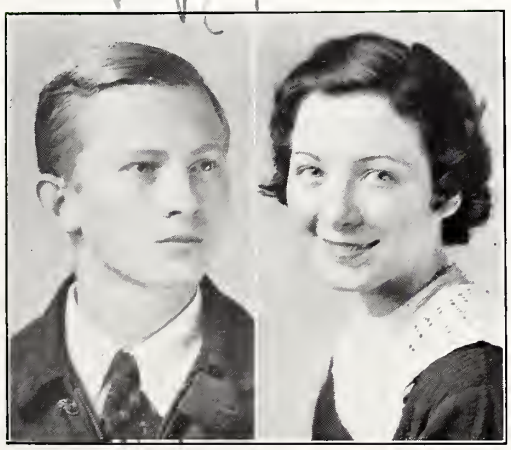
Walter Hines Page Literary Society 2, 3, 4; Phy-Chem Club 4; Hi-Rocket 2, 3, 4; Orchestra 2, 3, 4; Wrestling 2.

How astonished Fritz Kreisler would be to hear this amazing virtuoso perform upon his Stradivarius! Our Solomon Levi may not turn the world upside down, but he will never play second fiddle to anyone.

LOTTIE SHARP LEWIS

Cornelia Spencer Literary Society 2, 3, 4, Secretary 3, 4; French Club 2, 3, 4, President 4; Messenger 2, 3, 4, Editor-in-chief 4; Needlework Guild 2, 3, 4; Home Room President 3, 4, Secretary 4; Class Day Exercises 3; Latin Contest 3, 4; French Contest 3; Short Story Contest 3; Student Council 3, 4.

Lottie's irresistible charm, powers of leadership, keen mind, and pleasing personality have endeared her to us all.



HENRY SEEMAN LOUGEE

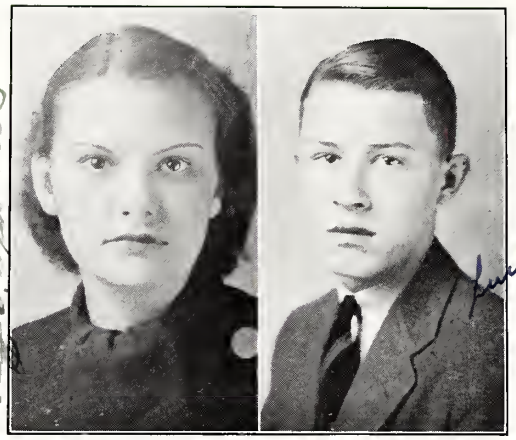
Baseball 3, 4.

Henry's natural reserve has hidden from many of us the wit and originality which he possesses in great abundance. All of us are lucky enough to enjoy an occasional flash of his humor; his friends receive and welcome a far more generous share.

ETHEL KATHARINE MANGUM

Hi-Rocket 4; Mixed Chorus 2, 3, 4; Girls' Chorus 2, 3, 4; Music Class Accompanist 3, 4.

Katharine is rather demure, but she can make any piano we ever saw bow to her will. Her audiences sit up and take notice, too! For "Trinka" possesses real ability as a pianist.



GLADYS ELIZABETH MARCOM

Basketball 2, 3; Volley Ball 2, 3; Needlework Guild 3, 4; Cornelia Spencer Literary Society 2; Athena Literary Society 4; Music Club 2; Commercial Club 3, 4.

Gladys—the girl with that lovely school girl complexion, and the large dark eyes—surely deserves the nick-name "Gypsy." She shows a gypsy's carefree attitude toward life and a decided dislike for hard work of all kinds.

FELIX DONALDSON MARKHAM, JR.

Track 2; Tennis 3; Monogram Club 2, 3, 4; Messenger 3, 4; Student Council 2; Commercial Club 4, Cabinet 4.

Tall and quiet, with a wide, ready grin, and a sensible head on his broad shoulders—that's Felix. He holds the respect and friendship of all who know him.

SENIORS

MARGARET HEARNE MARSHALL

Home Room Vice-President 2; Commercial Club 2, 3, 4; Southgate Literary Society 4; Glee Club 2, 3, 4; Needlework Guild 3, 4.

Margaret is endowed not only with the ability to make friends but with the charm to hold them. In addition, she possesses the unfailing perseverance and interest which are the fundamentals of success.

VIDIA BURKE MATTHEWS

Athena Literary Society 2; O. Henry Literary Society 3, 4; Needlework Guild 3, 4.

A pair of blue eyes, a head of beautiful red hair, and the ability to sing popular songs are Rusty's gifts from the gods. In later years we shall always think of her, singing the latest songs to the patients whom she nurses.

MARGUERITE ELIZABETH McCLENNY

O. Henry Literary Society 2, 3, 4, President 4; Dramatic Club 2; Hi-Rocket 2, 4; Needlework Guild 3, 4; Commercial Club 3, 4, Cabinet 4; Home Room President 3, Secretary 4; Student Council 3; Messenger 4.

Marguerite's attractiveness is due to her poise and quiet dignity. She cannot help favorably influencing those about her.

TROY MARTIN McKINNEY, JR.

Nature Study Club 2; Carmichael Literary Society 3, 4; Boxing 2; Basketball 3, 4; Golf 2, 3, 4.

People don't play golf on board battleships, but that is the only flaw in Mack's plan for the future. As Admiral in Uncle Sam's Navy, he will have to take shore-leave in order to keep up his golf.

EULALIA FERRELL McLEAN

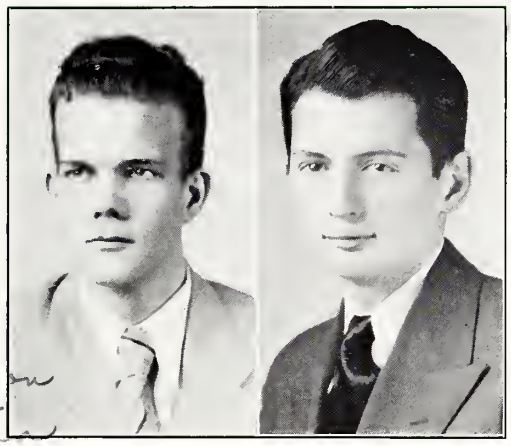
Glee Club 2, 3, 4, Girls' Trio 2; Orchestra 3; Dramatic Club 3; Cornelia Spencer Literary Society 2, 3; Needlework Guild 4.

Dame Fortune must have been in one of her generous moods when she endowed Ferra with a voice of such rare sweetness and with her lovable disposition.

WENDELL RICHARD MILLER

Stage Hand 1, 2, 3, 4; Football 3, 4; Coroso Play 4; Coöperative Class 3, 4; Commercial Club 4; Blackwell Literary Society 3.

During his whole high school career, Spud might easily have been found in one of three definite places: on the football field, on or near the school stage, or with the ladies. He seems to have done well in all three enterprises.



ALEXANDER WILLIAM PARRADO MOLINA

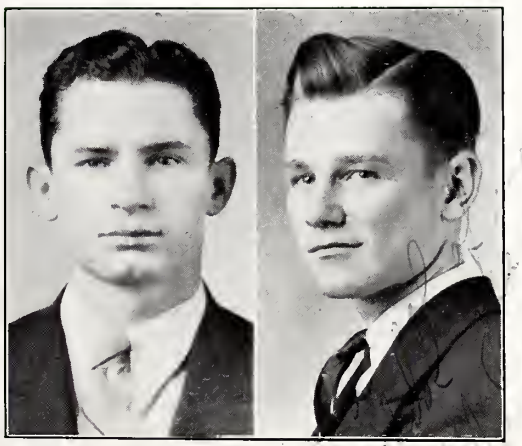
Buenos dios! Alec, widely known as "The Cuban," astounded the school with his blond fairness, while his merry smile and captivating ways made him immediately popular. He has exhibited his adeptness by so quickly acquiring a strange language and new customs.

The Best Luck for you
Alec Molina

HOMER EMANUEL MONTSINGER, JR.

Current Events Club 2, 3, 4, President 2, 3; Hi-Rocket 2, 4; Band 2, 3, 4; Orchestra 2, 3, 4; Student Council 2, 3; Home Room President 2, 3; Secretary Sophomore Class.

Homer is one of our most dependable, persevering, and scholarly boys. He has established a remarkable record in scholarship and, what is more important, in citizenship.



CONNIE ADRON MORRIS

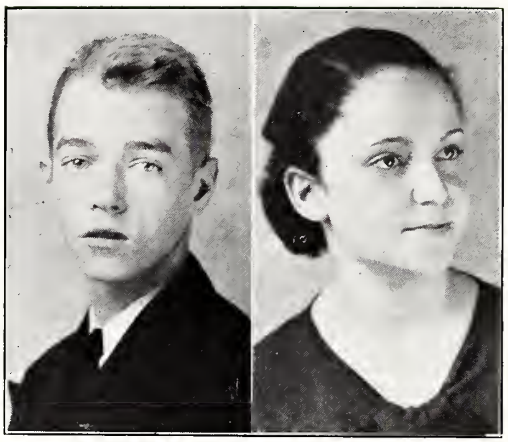
Commercial Club 2, 3, 4; Wrestling 2, 3, 4; Carr Literary Society 4; Baseball 3, 4.

Adron must be modest, for we have yet to hear him say anything about the record he has made in wrestling and baseball. He is a quiet boy, but a living example of "slow but sure won the race." Adron is out to win.

HAROLD FRANKLIN MULHOLLAND

Home Room Vice-President 2, Treasurer 2, 4; Page Literary Society 2, 3, 4; Music Club 3, 4; Wrestling 2; Chapel Usher 3, 4.

Harold sticks to whatever task he begins and carries it through to the end. His hobby, he says, is horses. We might add that he is a thoroughbred himself.



CLARENCE D. NABERS

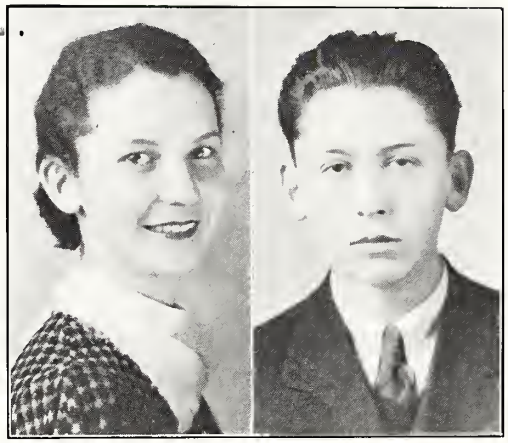
Baseball 2.

Clarence proves not only that "silence is golden," but also that "speech is silver." Although he goes about his duties in an exceedingly unassuming manner, he is ever-ready to add his helpful opinions to any worthwhile discussion.

EVELYN TONIA NACHAMSON

Cornelia Spencer Literary Society, 2, 3, 4; Needlework Guild 2, 3, 4, Director 3, 4; Swimming 4; Recitation Contest 2, 3, 4; Home Room Secretary 3, 4; Readers' Club 3; Commercial Club 4; Dramatic Club 2.

Eva is small in stature, but bubbling over with a sprightly personality which would win the hearts of an audience even without the and of the vast amount of talent which she possesses.



MARY LEE NACHAMSON

Cornelia Spencer Literary Society 2, 3, 4; Needlework Guild 2, 3, 4; Swimming 4; Music Contest 4; Glee Club 4.

This young lady has had a great deal to do with the success of the Nachamson team. Her ambitions, as well as her talents, tend toward a musical career, which she has already successfully begun.

IVEY JONES NEWTON

Ivey is a studious and hard working lad. His efforts are indeed unwasted for he obtains a broad knowledge of his courses. Steady working teamed with clear thinking have set Ivey on the right road.

WILLIAM SIMS NEWTON

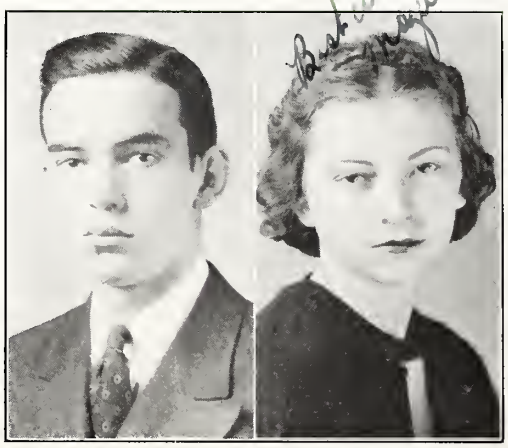
Walter Hines Page Literary Society 2, 3, 4; Orchestra 2, 3, 4; Band 2, 3, 4; Brass Quartet 4; Track 2, 4; Boys' Chorus 4; Mixed Chorus 4.

Music has surely claimed Bill for her own! He's in everything musical around this school and around other places besides. His chief diversion is writing music and he intends to follow this for his career.

LAURIE MOZELLE NICHOLS

Needlework Guild 2, 3, 4; Glee Club 2, 3; Commercial Club 2, 3, 4; Home Room Secretary 4.

Mozelle is another of our more musical Seniors and one whose voice is undoubtedly a gift from the gods. Her alertness and loveliness make her companionship a thing to be desired.



AZZIE MAE O'BRIANT

Commercial Club 2, 3, 4; Mixed Chorus 3; Needlework Guild 3.

Azzie Mae has a quiet, sunny disposition. She attacks every problem in a tactful, systematic manner, and usually accomplishes what she sets out to attain.

LEE WASHINGTON O'BRIANT

Blackwell Literary Society 2; Track 2, 3; Coöperative Class 3, 4, Secretary 4; Commercial Club 4.

Lee, who has become known as "Ichabod," possesses all the lovable qualities of Washington Irving's character. How could he help having friends throughout the school?

MARIAN BURCH O'BRIENT

Lila Markham Brogden Literary Society 2, 3, 4; Needlework Guild 2, 3, 4; Readers' Club 4.

Friendly, interesting, well-liked—these are adjectives which describe Marian. Are they not adjectives with which one might describe a good teacher? We think so. At any rate, we know that her future pupils will think as much of her as we do.

JAMES EDWARD MAURICE O'NEALE, JR.

A sense of humor walking around in a young man's clothes—that's Ed. He'd be able to see humor in his own funeral were it possible. Anyone who has troubles should carry them to Ed, for he'll laugh them all away.

MARY ORNOFF

Needlework Guild 4; Commercial Club 2, 3, 4; Lila Markham Brogden Literary Society 2, 3, 4.

Gazing into "the future we hope to see," we behold our demure little friend, Mary, taking the part of an experienced traveler, her trunks all plastered with foreign labels. Perhaps we'll even read in the "Geographical America" about her famous voyages.

WALTER EVERETT PAGE, JR.

Page Literary Society 2, 3, 4; Stamp Club 4, Hi-Rocket 4.

This friend of ours bears a name of which he is justly proud —Walter Page. He does not aspire to become famous in the same field as that of the already renowned Mr. Page, but he may make the name famous again in another field, aeronautical engineering.

ROBERT HARVEY PALMER

Home Room Treasurer 2, Home Room President 4.

Harvey has a remarkable knack of doing the right thing at the right time. He works conscientiously and never seems to create any unnecessary disturbance. Here is a true gentleman in every sense of the word.

ROBERT LEE PARKER

Commercial Club 2, 3, 4; Page Literary Society 4; Civics Club 3; Hi-Y 4.

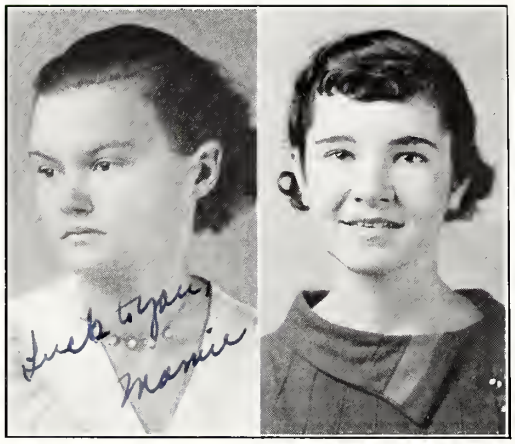
As Hugh White once remarked: "If (and when) you see a grin hanging on to some guy's chin, you'll know its Robert Parker." For Robert is the very soul of friendliness. In addition, he goes after it with real ingenuity, and brings forth well-earned results.

SENIORS

MAMIE EVELYN PATRICK

Lila Markham Brogden Literary Society 3, 4; Basketball 3, 4; Tennis 4; Latin Contest 3, 4; Needlework Guild 3, 4; Home Room Treasurer 3; French Contest 4.

Just show us the piece of work Mamie can't do, and do well! On the first honor roll always, outstanding in athletics, popular, vivacious—we like the girl a lot.



ANNA MILDRED PATTERSON

Home Room Vice-President 4, Treasurer 2, Secretary 2, 3; Senior Play Committee; Athena Literary Society 2, 3, 4, Treasurer 3, Vice-President 4; Messenger 2, 3, 4; French Club 3, 4, Vice-President 4; Latin Contest 3; Recitation Contest 3; Needlework Guild 3, 4, Secretary 4; French Contest 4.

Popular, studious, good-natured, willing—we could go on for hours, but perhaps we can include them all by saying that Mildred is good all-round.

MARY ANGIER PEARCE

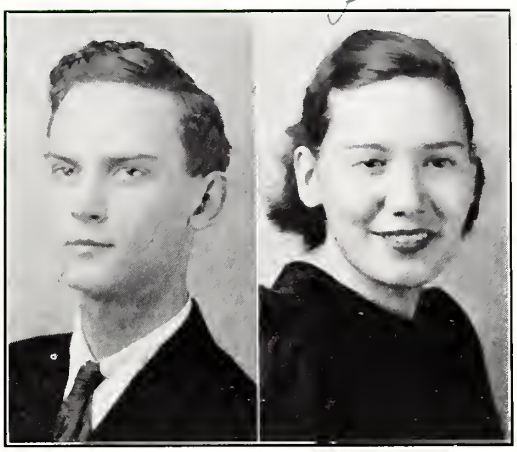
Cornelia Spencer Literary Society 2, 3, 4; Glee Club 2, 3, 4; Needlework Guild 2, 3, 4.

If you are looking for a person with a keen sense of humor, and one who is always a good companion, just go to Mary Angier. But the fact that she has some serious thoughts in her head is proved by her hobbies, reading and picture collecting.

JUDITH VIVIAN PEDERSEN

Athena Literary Society 2, 3, 4; Commercial Club 2, 3, 4; Needlework Guild 3, 4.

If Vivian did everything as fast as she talks and swims, she would speed through life so fast we wouldn't be able to see for the dust. But we have found out that she takes time to study and to make friends.



IRVIN HENRY PEED

Glee Club 2, 3, 4; Band 2, 3; Coroso Play.

Once having known Irvin, no one will deny that he possesses both the soul and voice of a true musician. Along with his musical talent, he has been endowed with great histrionic ability and a personality which has made us all respect and admire him.

MARGARET HESTER PENDERGRAPH

Needlework Guild 3, 4; O. Henry Literary Society 2, 3.

If you should see someone snooping around, it's "Pokey" looking for something funny. Margaret is the one who supplies much of the wit and humor for the Senior Class.

SENIORS

SALLIE ARTELIA PICKARD

Mixed Chorus 2, 3, 4; Needlework Guild 2, 3, 4.

Sallie's hobby is singing, and it well may be, for her voice is a lovely one. Her good looks and natural charm alone could carry her successfully through life; combined with a superior intelligence, they hold promise of nothing less than a brilliant future.

IDA MELBA PIFER

Mixed Chorus 2, 3, 4; Girls' Trio 3; Needlework Guild 3, 4; Lila Markham Brogden Literary Society 3, 4.

Entering into varied activities, winning friend after friend, broadening herself through hard work, Melba has made a tremendous success of her years in Durham High. Here is a girl who recognizes the worthwhile things in life and exerts herself to obtain them.

LEWIS WEAVER PIFER

Blackwell Literary Society 2, 3, 4; Tennis 3; Hi-Y 3; Mixed Chorus 2, 3, 4; Math Contest 3; Phy-Chem Club 3, 4; President 4; Football 2, 3, 4.

A very modest, quiet chap, but one with a most disarming grin, is Lewis. This same grin reveals one of his most likable characteristics—a keen sense of humor.

HAROLD WILLIAM POE

Commercial Club 3, 4; Cabinet 3, 4; Wrestling 3, 4; Hi-Rocket 4.

Harold is one person who will always volunteer his services when they are needed, and such a willing and conscientious worker as he is always in demand. His hobby of studying and an interest in electricity should make his name famous among electrical engineers of the future.

NANCY RUTH POE

Southgate Literary Society 2, 3, 4; Commercial Club 2, 3, 4.

Take a sweet disposition, an easy going nature, a loyalty in friendship, and a strong adherence to fine ideals, add them all together and you will have "Poe." Now may we add that Durham High hates to lose her?

WILLIAM HOWELL POLLOK

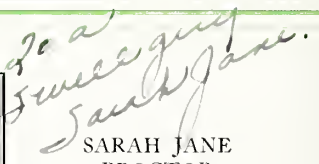
Julian S. Carr Literary Society 2, 3, Secretary 2; Band 2; Readers' Club 3; Cheer Leader 3, 4; Student Council 3, 4; Home Room Treasurer 2, 3, President 2, 3.

Bill is the handsome and husky blonde that leads the "leaning D's" at pep-meetings and games. There is something about him which causes feminine hearts to flutter, and that makes him a leader in whatever he undertakes.

FRANCES CLAIRE PRICE

Cornelia Spencer Literary Society 3, 4; Commercial Club 2, Cabinet 2; Messenger 3, 4, Art Editor 4; Home Room Vice-President 4; Needlework Guild 3, 4, Director 4; Art Club 2, Secretary 2.

Just imagine Claire as "Madame—the modiste." It is not hard to do, for she has an amazing amount of talent in that line, as well as the energy and personality necessary to put such an undertaking across.



SARAH JANE PROCTOR

O. Henry Literary Society 2, 3, 4; Needlework Guild 2, 3, 4.

When anyone says "Sarah Jane," we always think of a vivacious brunette. Her hobby is dancing, and no wonder—she does it so well and is so popular. Some business man's heart will skip several beats when she gets a job in his office.

ISABELLE PUCKETT

Commercial Club 2, 3, 4; Basketball 2, 3, Hi-Rocket 4; Volley Ball 2, 3.

"Izzy" is as full of pep and fun as the day is long. By her attractiveness and charm she has acquired many friends. When she flashes one of her winsome smiles, her position as a stenographer will be definitely secured.

MARY LEE RAMSAY

Messenger 2, 3, 4; Hi-Rocket 4; Athena Literary Society 2, 3, 4, Vice-President 3, Treasurer 4, President 4; Art Club 3, 4, President 4; Needlework Guild 3, 4, Director 4; Home Room Secretary 3.

A tiny package—yes—but full of good things. When Mary Lee isn't busy helping her friends, she is out making new ones. And she has millions.

MARY ELIZABETH RENN

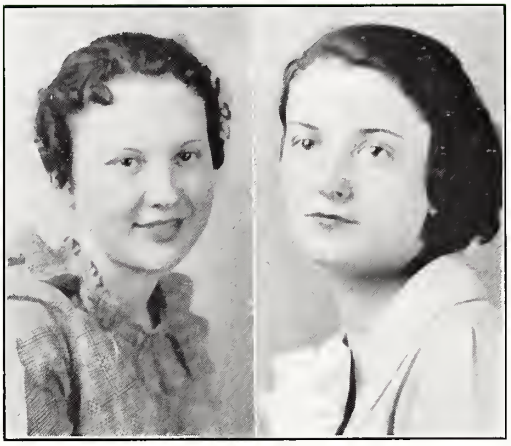
Glee Club 2, 3, 4; Commercial Club 4; Needlework Guild 4.

Here comes Mary Lib with her bundle of music and her French book, her face fairly wreathed in smiles. She is one of the happiest people with whom we have ever come in contact. And "a man's happiness lies within himself."

FRANCES LOUISE RICE

Athena Literary Society 2, 3; Commercial Club 3, 4, Cabinet 3, 4; Needlework Guild 3, 4; Glee Club 2, 3, 4.

"Sis" is always found laughing and talking. With a little training, she will make a remarkable orator; but her fancy is to other tasks, preferably, being secretary to some young man who travels abroad.



SENIORS

WILLIAM THOMAS RICH, JR.

Commercial Club 2, 3, 4; Civics Club 3, 4; Blackwell Literary Society 2, 3, 4; Music Club 2, 3; Mixed Chorus 2, 3; Senior Play Cast.

Everybody knows Billy. Dark, handsome, and attractive, he so much prefers play to work that he spends little time on the latter, yet a little effort on his part goes a long way. Needless to say, he is liked by everybody.

LOUISE BURNLEY RICHARDS

Cornelia Spencer Literary Society 2, 3, 4; Volley Ball 2; Basketball 4; Track 3; Mixed Chorus 2, 3, 4.

"Dickie's" career in Durham High has not been without many accomplishments. She intends to specialize in music, and our guess is that she will sing her way to fame.

1935

RICHARD KENNETH RICHARDSON

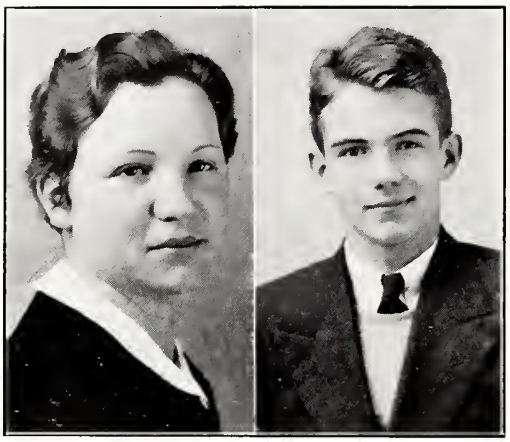
Nature Study Club 2, 3, 4, Vice-President 2; Phy-Chem Club 3, 4, Secretary 4.

Ken is one of our scientists. He goes about his research in a quiet way and makes really startling experiments. He has become quite proficient in photography, and art which should aid him in finding the traditional roadway to fame.

THELMA LUCILLE RIGSBEE

Needlework Guild 3, 4.

Thelma's modesty and serenity almost conceal her lovable personality. One is immediately attracted by her quiet sense of humor and easy manner. Her charm and dignity, combined with a firm determination to succeed, will carry her far in her chosen field.



LOTTIE IRENE RIPLEY

Commercial Club 2, 3, 4; Needlework Guild 2, 3, 4; Southgate Literary Society 2; Basketball 2, 3; Volley Ball 3.

Lottie throws herself whole-heartedly into anything she undertakes, and gets a great deal of pleasure out of whatever she is doing. Such vitality, combined with an optimistic outlook on life, cannot help but make her future a happy one.

JAMES FRED RIPPY, JR.

Page Literary Society 2, 3, 4; Home Room President 2, 4; Treasurer of Sophomore Class; Vice-President of Junior Class; Vice-President of Student Body 4; Aycock Debating Team 3; Messenger 2, 3, 4, Business Manager 4; Track 3, 4; Monogram Club 3, 4.

Intelligent, handsome, and popular—Fred's list of accomplishments bespeaks his superior character.

SENIORS

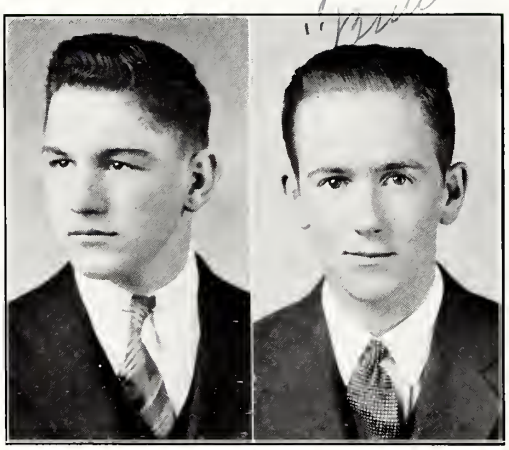
Best of luck, Bill

good luck Bruce.

WILLIAM ROBERSON

Band 2, 3, 4; Orchestra 2, 3, 4.

As a tuba-player Bill could easily rival a Navy bandsman. His instrument seems rather appropriate, for only through such a voluminous mouthpiece could he give vent to his unlimited energy.



BRUCE S. ROBERTS

Coroso Play 4; Coöperative Class 4.

Bruce's acting in the Coroso Play was enough to make us all sit up and take notice; his many other accomplishments are equally worthy of attention—for Bruce is another who possesses the spirit and ability necessary to succeed.

1935

KARL RUDOLPH ROLL

Commercial Club 2, 3, 4.

Rudolph's hobbies are travel and interior decoration; his ambition, to make his name known in the business world. With his capacity for overcoming obstacles and his persistence, there is no limit to his future accomplishments.

MARTHA ALICE ROWE

Commercial Club 2, 3, 4; O. Henry Literary Society 2, 3, 4; Needlework Guild 3, 4; Library Council 2, 3, 4; Secretary 4.

Alice giggles, Alice laughs, and before you know it you are laughing too, for there is something contagious about her almost perpetual good humor. She possesses an outlook on life which may well be desired by us all.

LILLIE RUTH RUSSELL

Commercial Club 2, 3, 4; Glee Club 2, 3.

"There's time to work and a time to play"—and Ruth has discovered them both. In either field she is outstanding for her efficiency and natural enthusiasm, and in both she shows herself to be one who is destined to succeed.

WOODARD FLEMMING RUSSELL

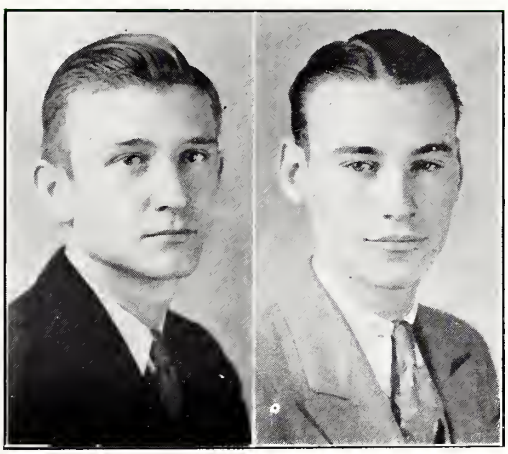
Blackwell Literary Society 2, 3, 4; Hi-Rocket 2, 3, 4, Co-Business Manager 4.

We scarcely need to write about Woody. Everybody knows him, and, knowing him, how can one help but like him? The Hi-Rocket Staff is full of praise for Woodard, the business manager. He helped to "pull them through," when the deed was not easily done.

WILLIAM ALBERT SALLY

Carmichael Literary Society 2, Mixed Chorus 2, 3, Football 2, 3, 4; Wrestling 3, 4; Civics Club 4, Varsity Club 2, 3, 4; Chapel Usher 3; Track 4.

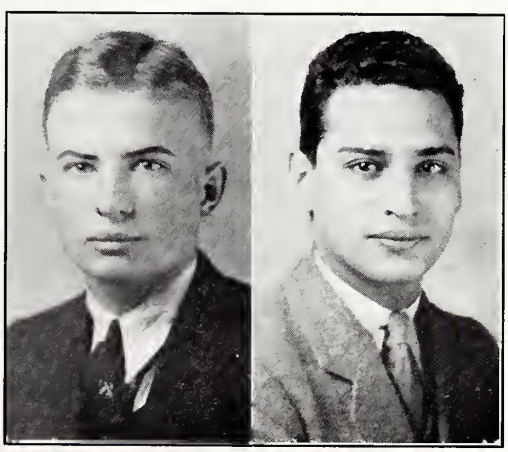
Bill wants to be a member of the order of S. Y. A. (Successful Young Attorneys). If you ask us, he'll be running the organization before long. Tall, genial, carefree, capable! At any rate, he has made a success of his high school career.



MACK FRED SCOTT, JR.

Civics Club 3; Shorthand Contest 2, Messenger 4.

"Great Scott's" ambition is to be a business man. His frankness and friendliness will certainly furnish a good start, and his conscientiousness and dignity will lead him still further on the road to success.



IRA GRAY SHERMAN

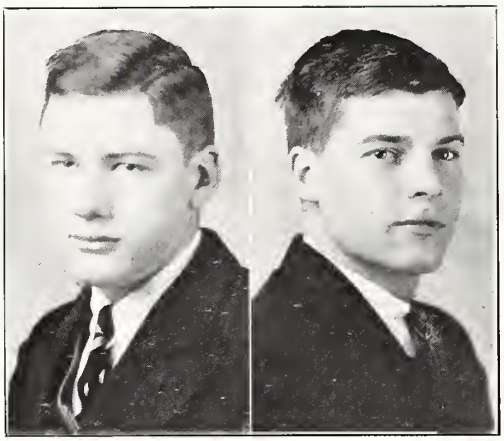
Blackwell Literary Society 2, 3, 4, Vice-President 4; Civics Club 4; Commercial Club 4; Monogram Club 3, 4; Track Manager 4, Tennis 4; Home Room Treasurer 3.

Gray is another who works well and accomplishes a lot. He is constantly doing things for others and, as a result, he is always in demand. Everyone likes him and wants to count him as a friend.

LOUIS WILSON SILVER

Julian S. Carr Literary Society 2, 3, 4; Messenger 4; Monogram Club 3, 4; Wrestling 2, 3, 4; Phy-Chem Club 3, 4; Home Room Vice-President 3, Treasurer 4.

Small of stature, but full of pep at all times—that's Louis. He always has something to say either at the right or wrong time. Don't be surprised if you see him thumbing his way around; hitch-hiking is a hobby of his.



PERRY AUSTIN SLOAN, JR.

Basketball 2, 3, 4; Tennis 2, 3, 4; Home Room President 2, 3, Vice-President 4; Blackwell Literary Society 2, 3, 4; Student Council 2, 3, 4; Monogram Club 2, 3, 4; Hi-Rocket 2, 3, 4; Messenger 2, 3; President Senior Class; Tennis 2, 3, 4; Commercial Club 4, Cabinet 4.

The class of '35 has proved its admiration for Perry by electing him as its president, and nowhere could it have found a better one.

SAMUEL CARL SOUTHERLAND, JR.

Home Room Secretary 2, Treasurer 2, Vice-President 3; Page Literary Society 2, 3, 4; Track 2, 3, 4; Monogram Club 2, 3, 4.

"Personality plus"—it's a well-worn phrase, but it describes Sam perfectly. He is one of those boys that everybody likes, and one of those who hasn't let studies interfere terribly with his education.

SENIORS

HUGH CARLYLE SPAULDING

Julian S. Carr Literary Society 2; Coroso Play 3, 4; Coöp Play 3; Coöperative Class 3, 4, President 4, Mixed Chorus 4; Boxing 4.

As president of the 1935 Coöperative Class, Hugh has displayed marked ability. Dignified and quiet, he has become known throughout the school as a true friend and a willing worker.

MARTHA LILLIAN SPEED

Commercial Club 2, 3, 4; Volley Ball 3; Basketball 2, 3; Mixed Chorus 2, 3; Home Room President 2, Vice-President 3.

Lib is an all-round girl, who has, during her high school career, participated in varied activities. Her alertness and punctuality will make her an unexcelled secretary and a desirable friend.

1935

"Now that you're gone I'm in my solitude." Dear

FRANK OSBORNE STALLINGS

Band 2, 3, 4; Orchestra 2, 3, 4; Brass Quartet 2, 3, 4; Woodwind Ensemble 2, 3, 4.

We are all proud of Osborne. His ability as a trumpet player has already attracted the attention of those other than ourselves. He himself has made an equally good impression on us, and soon will upon the world at large.

VIRGINIA LEE STALLINGS

Mixed Chorus 2, 3, 4; Needlework Guild 3, 4.

Jennie is a quiet girl who does her work in such a conscientious way that hard lessons and exams are to her mere trifles. When she dons the white uniform of her profession, we know she'll not have to search far for patients.

BEATRICE JOSEPHINE STEELMAN

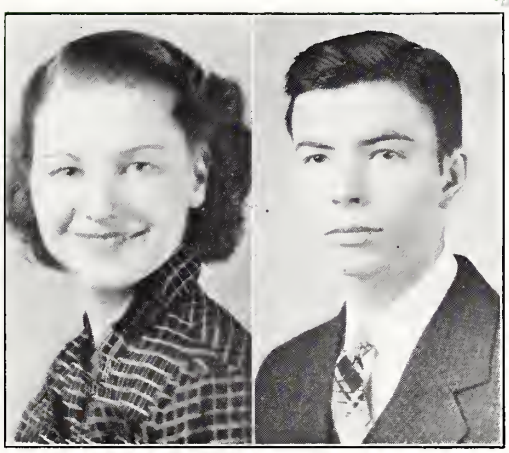
Athena Literary Society 3, 4; Commercial Club 2, 3, 4.

Beatrice is one of those quiet, efficient girls who does her work with little stir, but always gets it done on time. Whoever employs her as a secretary will find that he has discovered a real prize.

SARA NAOMI STEIN

Lila Markham Brogden Literary Society 3, 4; Needlework Guild 3, 4; Commercial Club 2, 3, 4; Mixed Chorus 2; Girls' Chorus 2.

For she's a jolly good fellow! When we see this young lady coming our way, we're mighty glad because her happy disposition is contagious. She is a real friend.



ELEANOR RUTH STONE

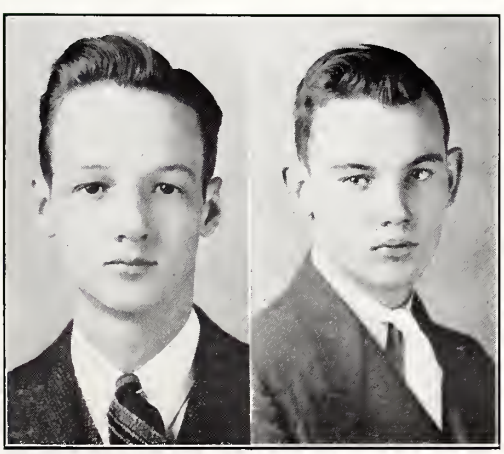
Lila Markham Brogden Literary Society 2, 3, 4; Commercial Club 2; Needlework Guild 3, 4; Home Room Secretary 2, 3, 4.

As well as thoroughly enjoying her years in Durham High, Eleanor has, through her personality and natural attractiveness, caused others to enjoy them as well. She's "not too serious, not too gay."

EDMUND SLADE SWINDELL, JR.

Messenger 3, 4; Walter Hines Page Literary Society 2, 3, 4; Chorus 2; Student Council 4; Treasurer of Student Body 4; Home Room Treasurer 2; Basketball 2, 3, 4, Co-Captain 4; Monogram Club 2, 3, 4; Tennis 3, 4; Track 3.

It is a real pleasure to know Ed. Despite his outstanding list of achievements, he is never too busy to make friends and to be one. We shall not easily forget "Suitcase."



BENJAMIN CLYDE THAXTON, JR.

Walter Hines Page Literary Society 2, 3, 4; Mixed Chorus 2, 3, 4; Boys' Chorus 2, 3, 4; Track 4; Senior Play Cast.

Most of you girls have known Ben since he was knee-high to a grasshopper, and from that day he hasn't missed a dance. His amiable smile and easy manner have made many a dull day cheery. And as for that baritone voice—O echoes of Orpheus!

JAMES CLAIBORNE THOMAS

Carmichael Literary Society 2, 3, 4; Commercial Club 3, 4; Student Council 2, 3; Basketball 2, 3, 4, Co-captain 4; Football 2; Monogram Club 3, 4.

Who doesn't know "Bro" Thomas? He has won the friendship of us all by his optimistic and friendly attitude, and he has used his many abilities to great advantage. Incidentally, as a basketball player he is "top-notch."

MARY JANE GERTRUDE TILLEY

Commercial Club 2, 3, 4; Basketball 2, 3, 4; Volley Ball 3, 4.

On the court or in the schoolroom, Gertie can always be depended upon to give her assistance. Her good nature has won, and will win for her many loyal friends.

JAMES BOWLING TROGDEN

Orchestra 4; Blackwell Literary Society 4; Civics Club 4.

This has been Rusty's first year with us, but it has been enough to make us wish for more. He plays the violin beautifully and possesses a real love of music. His rather unusual ambition is to be an explorer.

SENIORS

MARGARET ALEASE TURNAGE

Commercial Club 2, 3, 4.

No one would ever be able to guess everything that goes on behind Alease's inscrutible blue eyes, but one can make a pretty fair guess that a great deal of constructive thinking takes place.

LINWOOD LEE TURNER, JR.

Mixed Chorus 2, 3, 4; Male Chorus 2, 3, 4; Vocal Medal 3; Nature Study Club 2, 3, Secretary 2; Walter Hines Page Literary Society 4; Chief Auditorium Marshal 3, Co-Chief 4; French Club 4; Dramatic Club 2; Stage Committee 2, 3; Messenger 2, 3; Fire Prevention Oratory Winner 4, Essay Winner 2; Home Room Vice-President 2; Coöperative Class 4; Hi-Rocket 4; Aycock Debate 4; Keesler Memorial Contest Winner 4.

Linwood is, indeed, a leader among men.

1935

MARGARET FELTS UNDERWOOD

Commercial Club 2, 3, 4.

Margaret is a quiet girl, but one whose quietness denotes culture. The fact that her hobby is art shows that her interests are varied, for her ambition is to become a nurse. And that, we think, is proof enough of her kind and unselfish disposition.

JANE CLAREY VEASEY

Needlework Guild 3; Commercial Club 3; Southgate Literary Society 4; Girls' Chorus 4; Volley Ball 4.

Jane is one who will go through life demanding the best, and we can vouch for her that she will always get it. Her ambition is in the direction of commercial work; if she starts at the bottom, it won't be long before she's boss.

CLEMENT WALKER

Blackwell Literary Society 2, 3, 4; Declamation Contest 2, 3, 4; Aycock Debate 3, 4.

Clement's success in declaiming and in debating lies not only in his speaking ability but more largely in his sincerity and straight forwardness. And these two qualities extend into his other undertakings as well.

HILDA ELAINE WATTS

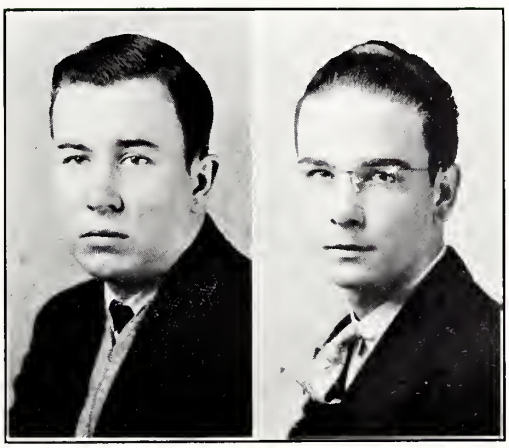
Needlework Guild 3, 4.

Hilda possesses that charm which is the real secret of popularity with both young and old. Her good nature, combined with unusual patience and kindness, will win for her deserved success in the future, as it has throughout the past.

RAYMOND MORRISON WEBB, JR.

Blackwell Literary Society 2, 3, 4; Commercial Club 3, 4; Hi-Rocket 4; Boys' Glee Club 2, 3; Mixed Chorus 2, 3; Orchestra 2.

Writing shorthand is Raymond's present hobby, but those curved lines will probably some day take the form of dollar marks; for Raymond aspires to be a banker. He will hold a trusted office when he starts counting out our hard-earned nickels and dimes; but he can fill the bill.



ALFRED CORNELIUS WEBSTER

Home Room President 2; Boys' Glee Club 2, 3, 4; Boys' Quartet 3; Mixed Chorus 2, 3, 4; Chapel Usher 3, 4; Coöperative Class 4.

The silver-toned tenor of the Senior Class is indeed a studious lad. He glides through the halls with lyric poetry on his lips. The Westminster Choir will gain an able confederate when Cornelius joins its ranks.

MARY ELLEN WHITAKER

Needlework Guild 3, 4; Cornelia Spencer Literary Society 3, 4; Athena Literary Society 2; Messenger 4; Basketball 2, 3, 4; Track 3, 4; Volley Ball 4; Swimming Team 4; Glee Club 2; French Club 4; Home Room Secretary 2, 4.

Ellen will probably go through life with a life-guard on one arm and an interne on the other; for when she comes into contact with them as a swimmer and as a nurse, neither will be able to resist her charms. Nor can we.

COY BRYANT WHITFIELD

Commercial Club 2, 3, 4, Treasurer 3, President 4; Carmichael Literary Society 3, 4, President 4; Home Room Vice-President 4.

"Whit" possesses a store of manly qualities combined with a smile that would outdo Clark Gable himself. Need we wonder why he has so many friends?

HOWARD GARLAND WHITFIELD

Julian S. Carr Literary Society 2; Commercial Club 3.

Garland possesses ambition and imagination which should carry him far. We only hope that as a successful business man he will find time to devote to his music, for his talent in that line is well worth cultivating.

HELEN INEZ WHITFORD

Southgate Literary Society 4; Commercial Club 4.

Inez's enthusiasm, humor, and wit have made us all realize what we missed by her failure to be with us during the first two years of high school life.

SENIORS

FLORA JANE WHITLEY

Lila Markham Brogden Literary Society 3, 4; Commercial Club 4; Volley Ball 3, 4; Needlework Guild 3, 4.

Flora Jane sings, she sews, she draws, and, besides all these things, (or maybe because of them), she makes everybody like her.

DONALD EDGAR WHITWORTH

Coroso Play 3; Coöperative Class 2, 3, 4; Commercial Club 3.

We all remember "Wuzzy" as the loud, bossy Barker in "Polly of the Circus." He himself is quite a different person and one whose friendship is truly to be desired.

1935

DORIS BECK WIGGINS

Commercial Club 2, 3, 4; Cabinet 4; Southgate Literary Society 2, 3, 4, President 4; Hi-Rocket 3, 4.

"Beck" is considered by a good many people the prettiest damsel in Durham High. Dark locks, flashing eyes—she stands more than a chance. Take it from us, she has a lot to be thankful for.

HELON CLARK WILKERSON

O. Henry Literary Society 2, 3; Lila Markham Brogden Literary Society 4; Needlework Guild 3, 4; Home Room Secretary 3, Vice-President 3.

Helon is one of those fortunate girls who always looks as if she had "just stepped out of a band-box." Even her handkerchief seems to match the rest of her costume. With this sense of the fitness of things she should make an excellent interior decorator.

EDGAR ALLEN WILLIAMSON, JR.

Blackwell Literary Society 2, 3, 4, Treasurer 3, Vice-President 4; Football 3, 4; Varsity Club 3, 4; Commercial Club 4; Hi-Y 2, 4, President 4; Boxing 4; Baseball 4.

The "Kid" has chances of becoming a second Red Grange; but he wants to be a banker, so you will probably some day read about the amazing success of the Williamson National Bank.

EMMA LOUISE WILLIAMSON

Lila Markham Brogden Literary Society 4; Needlework Guild 4.

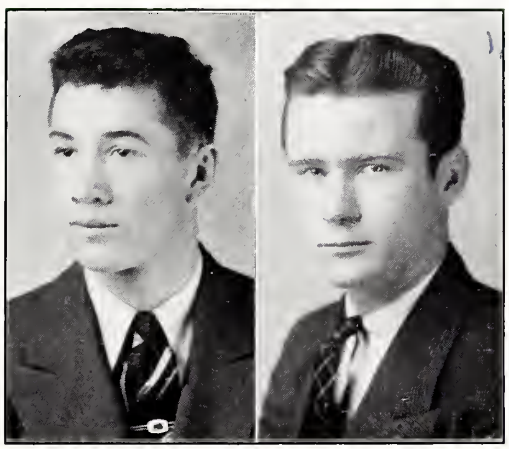
Emmy Lou has just come to us this year, so we really haven't known her very long. But even in this short while we have seen enough of her to feel that we missed a lot by not having her during her first two years.

SENIORS

ABRAHAM SAMUEL WILSON

Commercial Club 4; Monogram Club 2, 3, 4; Football 2, 3, 4; Track 2, 3, 4.

"All work and no play makes Jack a dull boy"—Abie is far from being dull! We'll hear great things from him someday. The sky is his limit—he wants to be an aviator.



WALTER EDWARD WINSTON, JR.

Julian S. Carr Literary Society 2, 3, 4; Civics Club 4, Vice-President 4; Monogram Club 4; Commercial Club 2, 3, 4, Secretary 4; Baseball 2, 4; Track 2, 3, 4; Home Room President 2.

Walter "Winchell" Winston, the great advertising manager of the future. He has been outstanding already in school and will be, before long, in the world at large. We will be proud some day because "we knew him when."

1935

GERALD MEDLIN WOMBLE

Julian S. Carr Literary Society 2; Page Literary Society 3; Civics Club 2, 3, 4; Baseball 4; Commercial Club 3, 4.

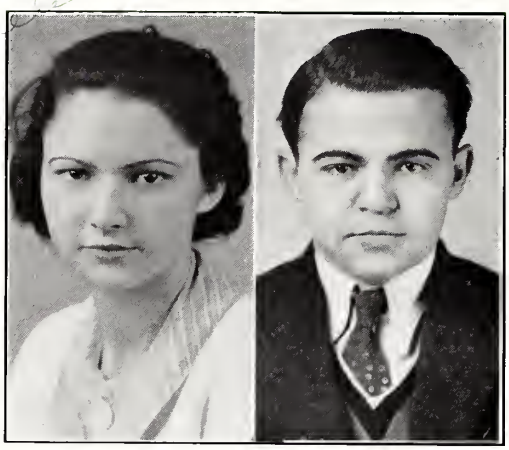
The High School's loss is the world's gain. Thus it is in the case of Jimmie Womble. As everyone knows, he's a cracking good baseball player; but even if he can't make this his vocation, he can at least make it his avocation.

LONITA WYATT WOODALL

Cornelia Spencer Literary Society 3, 4, Vice-President 4; Athena Literary Society 2; Track 2; Needlework Guild 3, 4; Home Room President 2, Vice-President 3, 4.

This striking young brunette, whose brown eyes twinkle with mirth and mischief, is always bubbling over with life. Yet she has proved to us all that she is a diligent worker and a good student.

Wishing you success & happiness
Adele



ERMA ADELE WOODS

Southgate Literary Society 2, 3, 4, President 4; Commercial Club 2, 3, 4, Cabinet 4; Home Room Secretary 4, Basketball 3; Track 3; Messenger 4.

It is too bad that we can't bottle Adele's optimism and personality and offer them for sale. The profit made would take care of any deficiency in our athletic fund. We feel sure of that, because we think that much of Adele.

JOHN ELBERT WOODS

Hi-Y 4.

Elbert is one person who goes after each separate task with wholehearted enthusiasm and determination. Needless to say, such an attitude toward his work has not been without worthwhile results, nor will it be in the future.

May you always remember Latin.
Elbert

SENIORS

EDMOND DIXON WOODY

Carmichael Literary Society 2, 3, 4, Secretary-Treasurer 4; Varsity Club 3, 4; Football 3, 4.

Ed is the one who helps open up holes in opposing lines for Durham's star backfielder's to take advantage of. The impression he has made in Durham High is a small one compared to the mark he will undoubtedly make in the world.

THOMAS CLARKSON WORTH, JR.

Home Room President 2, 3, 4; Secretary Sophomore Class; Secretary Junior Class; Student Council 2, 3, 4; Messenger 2, 3, 4; Blackwell Literary Society 2, 3, 4, Secretary 3; Track 2, 3, 4.

Clark has filled an outstanding place throughout his years at Durham High. Not only as a student and leader, but as an athlete as well, he has established his name among the first.

Best D'Luck
Best "Bill"

Happy landings

WILLIAM THOMAS YOUNG

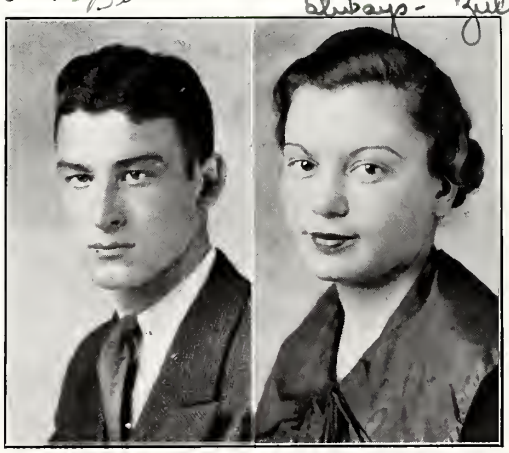
Home Room Treasurer 4; Carmichael Literary Society 2, 3, 4; Baseball 3; Hi-Y 4.

A carefree attitude, a genial personality, and a keen sense of faithfulness are distinct elements that distinguish Bill. After completing his course at State College, Bill plans to go into the roofing business, which will always keep him on top.

ETHEL MAE ZUCKERMAN

French Club 4; Messenger Staff 3, 4; Needlework Guild 3, 4; Cornelia Spencer Literary Society 3, 4; Athena Literary Society 2.

Loyalty, enthusiasm, intelligence—these are only three of "Zuckie's" many virtues. We're yet to see her when she wouldn't do anything for a friend. And we are yet to find the person who is not a friend of hers.



Invocation

We stand, immortal gods, upon this vale,
Our future destiny within your power;
We stand, triumphant, flushed with victory;
We glory in the triumph of this hour.
One race completed, others lie ahead;
Our lives, unmarred, stretch out before our eyes—
Grant us the power to fight, the strength to win,
Courage of heart, and minds to realize
True values, eyes to see more clearly yet,
Perceiving dangers, pitfalls on the way.
Sorrow and gladness, triumph and defeat—
Much lies ahead. But this,—this is our day!
And, Janus, we, beginning, plead with thee
To make our lives the lives they ought to be.

Class History

JUST AS THE PEOPLE of the earth throughout the reign of the three dynasties were ever growing in civilization and refinement, so have the members of the Class of nineteen hundred thirty-five advanced always toward their ultimate goal of citizenship, knowledge, and culture. In the month of September, nineteen hundred thirty-two, some two hundred or more untrained but enthusiastic Sophomores entered the ranks of Durham High. Eager to prove their abilities and to increase their knowledge and skill, they plunged straightway into the turmoil of activities. Under the leadership of Ben Horack, they so grew in both spirit and strength that, by the fall of nineteen hundred thirty-four, they were well-equipped to accept their responsibilities as Seniors.

The graduating classes of previous years had left behind them records which were hard to better; but this group, having chosen Perry Sloan, Frances Briggs, Clarkson Worth, and Edmund Swindell as officers, set before it the high standards of these classes, and, striving ever toward them, achieved much.

One record was established of which the class is justly proud. In scholarship, the percentage of failures was much smaller than that of preceding classes; and, to make the rating even higher, fifteen members of the class distinguished themselves individually for their exceptionally high standing.

Much credit for the success of Durham High's Olympic teams is due to the excellent support offered by the entire class as well as to the ability of its athletes. Tyree Jones, gridiron captain, was ably assisted by such stars as Bill Sally, Edgar Williamson, and Ed Woody. Edmund Swindell and "Bro" Thomas, co-captains, Perry Sloan, and Felix Markham divided honors in basketball. Baseball produced such heroes as James Brame, Adron Morris, Henry Lougee, and Walter Winston. In other athletics, a large number of these gained new honors, while many others, such as S. C. Southerland, Abie Wilson, Louis Silver, Clarkson Worth, and Arlin Stone established their fame.

To outdo these displays of manly valor, the girls of the class presented, early in May, a Pageant of Beauty. Cornelia Holloway presided over the court as Queen, while Dorothy Cheek acted as Maid of Honor, and Mary Frances Buchanan, Caroline Breedlove, Margaret Holland, and Louise Richards took part as attendants. Eva and Mary Nachamson acted as jesters. Nor did these modern damsels limit themselves to the maidenly pursuits of their ancient Greek ancestresses, for Frances Briggs, Mamie Patrick, Ellen Whitaker, Louise Richards, and Mary Barbour displayed decided athletic ability in more than one field.

In keeping with a tradition of several years' standing, the Class presented in early spring the annual Senior Play. "The Hidden Guest," a comedy with a rather mysterious strain, was directed by Mrs. Llewellyn, Mrs. Richardson, and Miss Lewter, with Celestia Bishop and Ben Thaxton in the leading roles, supported by an exceptionally good cast.

The artistic phases of each undertaking were well developed through the great ability of Fred Hunter, Claire Price, Mary Lee Ramsay, and Wreathe Clapp.

In music, Katherine Mangum, Mary Eleanor Krummel, Melba Pifer, Irvin Peed, Ben Thaxton, Cornelius Webster, Willis Carpenter, Osborne Stallings, and Billy Newton hold great promise of future attainment.

The Hi-Rocket, the bi-monthly newspaper published by the student body, due to the ingenuity of its editor, Ben Horack, and his board of able assistants, and to the remarkable business ability of Bill Franck and Woodard Russell, advertising managers, has advanced a great deal beyond the already excellent publication of last year.

Toward the close of the year, the attention of the entire student body was focused on the Messenger, which was edited by Lottie Lewis, editor-in-chief, Mildred Patterson, literary editor, Claire Price, art editor, and Fred Rippy, business manager.

The two teams which represented Durham High in the 1935 Aycock Debating Contest were composed of Linwood Turner and Bernard Dworsky, Seniors, and Betty Lloyd Tandy and Jay Hubbell, Juniors. All four participants displayed unusual oratorical ability; the decision was lost only after a spirited struggle.

As leaders in every phase of school life—in scholarship, in athletics, and in all extra-curricula activities—the members of the Class of '35 have, while receiving full benefit themselves contributed much to the common good. Fully prepared in any emergency, they have done their share toward raising the standards of Durham High. Now, having completed their courses, they relinquish their position to those who are pressing close behind.

Thus, the final activity of this Senior Class approaches—Graduation. One step more and we shall no longer be Durham High students. With hearts filled with gratitude to those who have given to us so much, with a somewhat triumphant feeling, and with many a pang of regret, we leave these halls forever. We hope that the Class of nineteen hundred thirty-five will not soon be forgotten; for we, its members, shall not soon forget.

Senior Play

The Annual Senior Play was presented by the Class of '35 on the night of March 15. The story chosen was a rather mysterious comedy, "The Hidden Guest."

The cast, chosen after careful consideration and preparatory work, was as follows: Minnie Mayfield, Doris Chestnut; Bert Judkins, Ben Thaxton; Melons, Mary Frances Buchanan; Hubner, Monroe Bordeaux; Ruby Mayfield, Celestia Bishop; Mr. R. A. Judkins, John Lentz; Mrs. Barrington, Ruth Durham; Nellie Trotwell, Evelyn Hall; Briggs, Billy Rich; Tad Williams, Cornelius Webster; and McCarty, Jeff Wilson.

The scene was laid in the home of Miss Minnie Mayfield where, in the course of twenty-four hours, Bert Judkins went through his fraternity initiation, fell desperately in love, captured an escaped convict, and recovered some long-lost bonds. Meanwhile Melons, the deaf and superstitious servant, added greatly to the complications by communicating with the spirit of the deceased Uncle Timothy, which spirit was, in reality, none other than Hubner, the convict.

The success of the performance was due largely to the splendid coaching of Mrs. Llewellyn, Miss Lewter, and Mrs. Richardson.

SCENE FROM SENIOR PLAY

Old Togas and Sandals

(Class Will)

IN THE NAME of Education Amen: We, the Senior Class of nineteen hundred thirty-five being fairly well in body, and sound and perfect in mind, thanks to our three years' sojourn in this school, do therefore ordain and make this our last will and testament; that is to say, first and principally, we will and bequeath our most cherished privileges, possessions, attributes, virtues, and vices to be distributed at the discretion of our executors, hereafter named, to those who will follow after us and try to fill our boots, after our just debts and legacies are paid.

We give and dispose of the same in the following manner and form:

1. We, the departing Seniors do, separately and collectively, present to the rising class of '36 our choice home rooms on the first floor, along with the envied privilege of going to lunch the first lunch period.

2. We leave, also, the lawn in front of the school, that is to say, all land lying between the thoroughfare known as Duke Street and the respected hall of learning, called Durham High School, and also that land lying for sixteen feet on either end of above mentioned plot, along with and including all such growing herbs as grass, clover, dandelions, and onions—all these we leave to the coming classes and to their posterity forever, with the request that they use them according to regulations. (A list of these rules may be obtained by mailing requests to Mr. Holton).

3. Ellen Whitaker wills her ever-present supply of candy and cough-drops to Miss Hunrichouse, confident that it will receive good use.

4. Caroline Breedlove bestows her up-to-date "Fashion Flashes Column" upon Lillie Duke Clements.

5. 6A1 wills all scrap paper and empty black-board space for the purpose of playing tit-tat-toe to the 6A1 to be.

6. The Messenger Staff of '35 leaves the extraordinary and unusual phrase "bound to succeed" to the staff of '36 with the request that the members of said staff do not use it in more than 200 Senior write-ups.

7. The cast of "The Hidden Guest" bequeaths to the cast of next year's senior play the hours 3:10 to 6:30 during the months of February and March, to be used with discretion.

8. Harvey Barbee bestows, with fitting emotion, his unsurpassable whistle upon Mr. Holton in hopes that he doesn't waste too much time in practice.

9. Nancy Laprade leaves her very courteous "Excuse me's" to William Phillips, hoping that he will become a perfect Sir Walter Raleigh.

10. John Glasson wills his "Stepen Fetchit" drawl and humor to Preston Fowler.

11. Ed Swindell wills and bequeaths his pedal extremities (commonly known as feet) to any one in the Junior class who needs a firm foundation.

12. Gladys Marcom leaves her supply of cosmetics to Florence Lockhart provided the latter doesn't mix algebra with these aids to beauty.

13. Jeff Wilson wills his rotundity to Gertrude Isenhour.

14. Pride Brown places his talent for extracting money from unwilling seniors upon Eugenia Speed, with the request that she doesn't become too attached (to the money).

15. Fred Hunter bestows his artistic ability upon Helen Noell if she will promise to draw another Christmas scene for Mr. de Bruyne.

16. Bernard Dworsky wills his ability to out-argue a sign post to Betty Lloyd Tandy.

17. We, the Seniors, hereby bequeath the new Gym floor to the Junior Class on receipt of the promise that they beat Raleigh next year in Basketball.

18. Ben Brogden wills the taps on his shoes to "Skeeter" Upchurch (to be used to warn the faculty of his approach).

19. Alexander Molina presents his amazing ability to make girlish hearts flutter to Stewart Alexander.

20. Jack Leighton wills his lovely rose-colored complexion to Virginia Mason with the request that she keep it under control.

21. Ben Horack wills his "steady", Josephine, to Frances Borland, begging said receiver to treat her kindly.

22. Also, we the Seniors, will 300 mimeographed copies of the fealty song to the rising student body if they will faithfully promise to learn it perfectly (omitting none of the repeat marks) before May, 1936.

23. Lastly, finally, and with due respect, we, the authors of this document do will and bequeath to the writers of the will of '36 the wee small hours of the night (including the midnight electricity) desperately hoping that said gifts will be used to better advantage.

We, likewise, constitute, ordain, and make William Powell Twaddell and Louise Taurman Watkins, our said beloved teachers, our only and sole executors of this, our last Will and Testament, by them fully to be possessed and enjoyed; and we do hereby utterly dissolve, revoke, and disannul all former Wills and Testaments by us in any way before this time named, willed, and bequeathed, ratifying and confirming this to be and no other to be our last sole Will and Testament.

In Witness hereof, we have hereunto set our hand and seal, this twenty-fourth day of May in the year of our Lord nineteen hundred and thirty-five.

Oracle of the Gods

(Class Prophecy)

THE GREEK TRAGEDY, which I was witnessing, became so dull and uninteresting that I soon fell asleep. I know not how long I slept, for, when I awakened, I found myself amid new surroundings. The hard wooden bench in the Dionysius theatre at the Acropolis had been replaced by a soft cushioned chair in a dimly lighted building. Upon glancing downward, I was startled, for silken garments replaced my former coarse-spun toga. A loud voice cut the stillness of the large room, and as I gazed before me, amazing pictures, flashing on a screen, fascinated me.

The first to hold my attention was a "Know all, See all News Reel" presented by Ben Thaxton, Inc. My interest was further aroused by Mildred Patterson and Ray Brooks, who, as missionaries in Japan, were teaching the kiddies in three easy lessons how to win scholastic honors.

Cornelia ("Miss America") Holloway, after divorcing her fifth husband, had decided that marrying her lawyer, Briant Whitfield, would save them both lots of money and trouble.

J. Fred Rippy, Speaker of the House, made his famous speech, "To Be or Not to Be" before the Eighty-fifth Congress. Behind Mr. Rippy was seen the sleeping form of Ed O'Neal, who, when awakened, gave an excellent talk on "Safety Rules in Driving." Lonita Woodall, a horticulturalist who specializes in "Roses," gave her opinion on the farm situation.

The rapidly flashing reel carried me to the Olympics, held for the first time in the Cultural Area of the South in the stadium jointly owned by the University of North Carolina and Duke University. Perry Sloan and Mamie Patrick thrilled the huge crowds there with their southern drawls and fast tennis playing.

A brief fashion show by Claire Price was next presented before a pleased audience at Miami. "Claire's" daring, sophisticated styles have thrilled the women on every continent. Particularly appealing are those illustrated in the magazine, "How to be Stylish though Portly," which is written, owned, and edited by Mary Frances Buchanan.

Billy Bryan, in an effort to set a new altitude record, simply stood up in his plane and all previous records fell. Mayor Clarkson Worth presented him with a medal for this wonderful achievement. However, Mr. Bryan was still up in the air about it all.

Mary Lee Ramsay won first place in an art contest with her latest landscape painting, "Love in Bloom."

A young roofing man, Thomas Young, had fallen from the Empire State Building while re-roofing it and received only a scratch. In an interview, he exclaimed, "Boy, can I take it!"

The advertisements were headed by that of Dot Cheek's "Popularity School" for backward girls. Her faculty was composed of Sara Jane Proctor and Helen Wilkerson.

"Lervely" toothpaste was advertised by John Lentz' famous "toothpaste grin."

Bob Thorne's orchestra, consisting of Ozzie Stallings, Bill Roberson, Fred Edwards and Bill Newton, presented a musical skit featuring Ferra McLean, vocalist. Mr. Thorne played his popular tune, "Though I'm only a Thorn(e) on Your Rose Bush." The two Nachamson sisters, Eva and Mary, gave their latest achievement, a famous tap-dance done while standing on their heads. Ed Fortune displayed his natural talent for comedy. (No assistants were necessary).

The coming attractions showed scenes from "Carmen" with the leading roles filled by Mary Eleanor Krummel and Irvin Peed. The supporting cast was composed of Billy Sally, Louis Silver, Woody Russell, Dick Gaddy, and Ed Swindell. A preview of "The Barker" with Mary Frances King playing the title role was also shown. Minor roles were portrayed by Frances Briggs, Vidia Burke Matthews, and Jane Hooper.

A soft light filled the theatre for a few moments, giving me a chance to get a better view of my new environment. I noticed a small hand waving at me, but I had to look twice before I was able to detect little Marian Coleman in the crowd. She called out to me that she had just come from seeing Ruth Durham and Margaret Holland off on their non-stop flight to southern Africa, where they planned to renew their man hunt. I was amazed to hear of my friends of the old world here in this dazzling new world. Suddenly, the lights went out again and the new film absorbed my interest.

The feature "I Tank I go Home" with Florence Jaffé occupied my time for the next sixty minutes. Billy Rich and Jeff Wilson as the two heroes were magnificent. When Mr. Wilson finally won the fair maid, the audience was once more able to breathe.

When the film was finished, the manager rushed onto the stage to announce that Miss Doris Chesnut, with the able assistance of Eleanor Stone, had finally been granted a patent on her "Perennial Chewing Gum."

Then I heard a terrific, rumbling noise as the walls of the theatre began to crumble and fall. I was unable to move as I noticed one of the massive lighting fixtures directly above me falling. I opened my eyes to find myself back in the Greek Amphitheatre with my friend trying to arouse me. The tragedy was ended, as were my dreams of another life.

Ethel Mae Zuckerman, '35.

Class Song

poco SosTenuTo
Felix Mendelssohn-Bartholdy (1839)
Our climb in life is well be-gun A lev-el space has now been won; We gain the height Before us vaunts a high-er peak, The laf-Tier goal for which we seek, For-ev-er bright with mys-tic light.

Class Song

Our climb in life is well begun;
A level space has now been won;
We gain the height.
Before us vaunts a higher peak,
The loftier goal for which we seek—
Forever bright with mystic light.

The world in which our work is found
In fearful ills does now abound,
In direst need.
Shall we, endowed with strength and youth,
Deny to men the light of Truth-—
For right we'll plead, nor e'er recede.

The generations which precede
Were racked with war, with crime, with greed.
We take their place,
For we ourselves now consecrate
To banish fear and wrong and hate,
Those scars efface, the right replace.

But now we leave this well-known scene
With bodies fresh and interests keen
To start the fray.
May God our every effort bless,
And help us every wrong redress
As day by day, we climb the way.

—Mildred Patterson, '35.

In Farewell

(Class Poem)

Now, looking out toward fields anew,
Three years of joy we must review
As gone.—May future years be met
With eagerness, and may we yet
Win out, with colors clean clear through.

We'll do our best in all we do
With majesty we gained from you,
Though now, with sorrowful regret,
We say adieu.

In future life we shall pursue
The high ideals inspired by you;
So, may we pay in full our debt
To you, oh, alma mater. Let Us then apply your standards true—
But now, adieu.

—Nancy Laprade, '35.

Junior Class History

WHEN the world was new and Olympian deities reigned over all, heroes first came into being. Some were outstanding in the arts, some in athletics, and some in scholastic achievement. Whatever the field of activity, the heroes strove to uphold the high standards set by their predecessors and to rival their accomplishments. This aim the Juniors of Durham High School have tried to carry out. John Newsom, Doris King, Eugenia Speed, and Christina Changaris have piloted the class through this year of achievement. That they have been successful is portrayed by their records.

Such members as Helen Capsalis, Christina Changaris, Lily Darnell, Jack Eubanks, Lorelle Fillers, Chesterleen Gibson, Roberta Hardee, Carolyn Henderson, Gertrude Isenhour, Marian Johnson, Helen Knight, Virginia Mason, Ernestine Newsom, William Piatt, Irene Price, Eugenia Speed, and Dean Robertson have upheld the standard in scholarship. The class as a whole has had a lower percentage of failures than any other Junior Class in the history of the school.

Betty Lloyd Tandy and Jay Hubbell, through sustained effort, won for themselves a berth on the Aycock Debating Team and a place in the Hall of Famous High School Personages.

Likewise, we can boast of the musical talent of such students as Harry Boyd, Sam McPherson, Helen Brantley, Lois Faucette, Florence Lockhart, Louise Boney, Mary Jean Bronson, Louise Norris, and Mary Fern Coble, and of the artistic touch of Christina Changaris, Sarah Andrews, Cornelia Jones, Juanita Rich, Nancy Hackney, Paula Powell, Marian Carroll, and Eunice Dowdy.

The Hi-Rocket, the MESSENGER, and all literary organizations have received invaluable support from the class of '36.

Realizing that the development of brain and brawn go hand in hand, the class has entered whole-heartedly into all athletics. The record set by the school could never have been reached had it not been for the loyal support of Langhorne Hobgood, Dante Berini, Cecil Lucas, John Woody, and many others.

The girls, too, were active in this field of accomplishment. The Junior girls won the Intramural Volley Ball Championship and gave material support to basketball, tennis, swimming, and baseball. Such names as those of Lillie Duke Clements, Virginia Mason, Connie Welsh, Eugenia Speed, Jeannette Snipes, and Doris Matthews were familiar in sports write-ups. Many Junior girls participated in the May Day festivities; Frances Borland, Mary Jean Bronson, Lillie Duke Clements, and Billie Warren represented the class as attendants in the Court.

As a tribute to the Senior Class, the Class of '36 held an enjoyable dance in the spring, which was a feature of the social life of the school.

In retrospect, the Juniors realize that their past achievements have set for them a standard which must be upheld, and are ready and eager to accept the responsibilities laid down by the outgoing Senior Class.

Sophomore Class History

THE UNTRIED HEROES of the Class of '37 have already begun to test their skill. After a few short weeks spent in adjusting themselves to their new environment, they began to display to those who had already attained a higher standing their aptitude in scholarship, their prowess in athletics, and their talents in the cultural arts. With Ed Dunham, president, assisted by Robert Rippy, vice-president, Martha Anne Young, secretary, and Jessie Ormond, treasurer, setting the pace for the class, the entire membership soon fell into line and advanced rapidly and without hesitation.

The membership of the various literary societies was almost doubled by the entrance of the Sophomores. Many of these heroes-to-be joined other clubs—Music Clubs, Needlework Guild, Hi-Rocket and Messenger Staffs, and other extra-curricular activities. They have entered whole-heartedly into the activities of these organizations; some rose to recognition in their respective groups. Mary Malone accepted the presidency of the Handicraft Club and Kate Lee Harris became Vice-President of the Stamp Club.

A large number of Sophomores showed their eagerness to become better public speakers by taking part in various Public Speaking Events. Rose Kueffner, Rolande Widgery, and John Johnson represented the Sophomore Class in the Keesler Memorial Contest.

In music and in art this class has been outstanding. Eugene Germino, Robert Rippy, Marshall Turner, George Whitley, Margaret Motley, Mary Cousins, Mozette Rigsbee, Martha Slayton, Edna Lloyd, Hubert Elder, Lucille Veasey, and Norma Lee Goodwin have displayed great vocal or instrumental talent, while in art Carol Seeley and Warren Pope have shown marked ability.

Although they were busily becoming adjusted to their new surroundings, the Sophomores never forgot the real purpose of their sojourn in high school. Marjorie Davis, Mary Diamond, Joan Epperson, Norma Lee Goodwin, Elizabeth Gregory, Kate Lee Harris, Rose Kueffner, Lois Lee, Raymond McDermott, Anne Mills, Jessie Ormond, Carol Seeley, Carolyn Umstead, Robert Wetmore, and Lucille Veasey maintained an A average on all their work. This high percentage of honor roll students, combined with the low percentage of failures, has been a source of great joy to the faculty, to the administration, and to the parents. At the end of the first reckoning period, the Sophomores stood second in the school, the Seniors surpassing them by only a slight margin.

Both boys and girls participated in every athletic event held by the school. The Sophomore boys provided active competition for the Varsity Teams; and although only such stars as Balford Hackney, George Spransey, Richard Pierce, Robert Fortune, and Eugene Luquire were particularly outstanding, many others hold great promise of future development.

In girls' athletics Carol Price, Jimmie Southgate, and Virginia Roberts were leaders, winning repeated honors for themselves and for their teams. Margaret Ann Knight, Lois Lee, Elizabeth Teer, and Mildred Whitaker were selected because of their grace and beauty to represent the class in the May Court. Jessie Ormond and Marjorie Davis acted as heralds.

The commendable record already established by this class holds great promise for the future.

Coöperative Class History

THE COÖPERATIVE CLASS of Durham High, the first organization of its kind in North Carolina, offers excellent opportunities to those boys in the school who find it necessary to work and who wish to continue their education. Its members, throughout the years, have applied themselves whole-heartedly in an effort to reap full advantage, and, accordingly, their standards, ideals, and records of achievement have been high.

Honesty, unselfish service, coöperation and good fellowship have always been promoted by the Coöps. In every school undertaking as well as their own ventures they have lived up to what their name implies.

The boys of this group work in varied industries throughout the city, their jobs requiring from twenty to more than thirty-five hours each week. Accordingly, they have worked out a system which enables them to take courses in the high school at times most convenient to them. In addition to the regular curricula work, Miss Rogers holds classes in English and Social Sciences for the Coöp boys alone.

For the purpose of meeting the moral, mental, physical, economic, and social needs of every member, the Coöperative Class conducts varied activities throughout the year. Of these, one of the most important is the annual Coroso Play. "Polly of the Circus," which was presented in the fall of this year, was one of the most successful produced in some time.

The initiation of the freshman Coöps is, likewise, a traditional event, and one which not only the old members but also the new enjoy thoroughly, despite the fact that the latter generally go through the secret rites with much trepidation.

A turkey dinner, served by the freshmen to the other Coöps, is another annual form of entertainment. On this occasion, the director and cast of the most recent Coroso Play are guests of the class. Following the dinner, these present excerpts from the play, which make up a large part of the program.

In the spring two social events are outstanding—a one-act play presented with the aid of girls from the Commercial Club, and a Social held at Camp Sacarusa in honor of the "Coöp girl friends." The play presented this year was "The New Bride" by Lois Howell.

The members of the Coöperative Class are justly proud of their achievements, of their educational and social progress, of their loyal alumni, and of their outstanding seniors, and they feel that their success is due largely to the inspiring leadership of Miss Maude Rogers, who, as their director, has guided them wisely and well.

BOOK IV

ACTIVITIES

THE AMUSEMENTS OF THE ANCIENT GREEKS WERE MANY AND VARIED.

Assembled 'mid the splendor of their dwellings,
The people of earth spent their leisure,
Dining, and laughing, and talking together
Under the beauty of the starlit night.
For them did the little god Pan
Pipe gay melodies in the shadowy wood;
Often did Orpheus, too,
Beguile them with songs of the lyre;
Theirs was the sculpture of masters,
Of the great Phidias, the mighty Praxiteles;
Socrates and Plato were of them,
And theirs was the work of Euripides.
They bequeathed unto us, the folk of the future,
An heritage rich with that culture;
Their beliefs, their religion, their folk-lore—
Imagination mingled with reality,
A store of knowledge, a wealth of fancy,
Which lives today as yesterday it lived,
And, in the hearts of men, shall live forever.

Word of Thanks

THE STAFF of this, the 1935 MESSENGER, wishes to express its whole-hearted appreciation to those who have made this publication possible,

To Mrs. G. B. Egerton and Mr. R. E. Freeman, our faculty advisers, whose efforts have been untiring, whose counsel has been always wise;

To Mr. Quinton Holton, our principal, adviser, and never-failing friend, and to Mr. W. F. Warren, superintendent of the Durham City Schools;

To Miss Susie G. Michaels, who has helped us greatly in interpreting the theme;

To Mrs. Mary L. Mason, who has so capably controlled the artistic phases of the book;

To our advertisers whose sincere faith in this undertaking has made it possible;

To Mr. C. W. Spann, engraver, and to the Seeman Printery, Inc., both of whom have done their part most skillfully;

And, lastly, to the entire student body, which has so willingly concurred in every particular.

Without the coöperation and aid of these, this MESSENGER would be far less worthy of its superior predecessors.

LOTTIE SHARP LEWIS,
Editor-in-chief.

The Hi-Rocket

Advisers: Miss Marguerite M. Herr
Mr. B. L. deBruyne
Mr. Harvey T. Gibson

The Hi-Rocket, a medium for self-development growing out of pupil initiative and effort, is today a major student activity. It has improved steadily its content, standards, and service since it was first issued by the Class of 1921, when Roger B. Davis was editor-in-chief, and Carl Hobgood, business manager. The paper was named by Margaret Wannamaker, a member of the Class of 1922.

Today it is published bi-weekly by a staff of one hundred members, chosen for interest in or fitness for the work of editing, financing, or circulating the paper. The entire staff meets once a week with the advisers for general instruction. A smaller working unit, the editorial board, is directly responsible for the final work on each issue.

That the paper might render the most effective service possible, the editor, Ben Horack, invited seniors to suggest new ways and means that might be constructive and practical in interpreting the school to the public. The innovation of the eight-page paper made possible the addition of more illustrations and features, and a general improvement in the make-up. A sports page, built and supervised by the editor, has been the most outstanding contribution of the year.

Because these changes required additional money, the enterprising business managers, Bill Franck and Woodard Russell, with the advice of administrators and business men, launched a comprehensive advertising program. Through the coöperation of the merchants in buying feature advertisements, of the art department in furnishing attractive posters, and of the public speaking class in giving timely sales talks, the staff has been able to achieve its purpose.

This year, in the annual Columbia Scholastic Press Association Contest of which the Hi-Rocket has been a member for ten years, the paper for the fourth time was given first-class rating among schools of its class. At the convention in New York the staff was represented by three delegates, Ben Horack, Bill Franck, and Mr. Gibson, faculty adviser. In the group meetings conducted by student leaders, Ben Horack was invited to speak on "Fitting the Paper to the School," and Bill Franck on "New Schemes in Advertising."

The Thomas Hume Cup, awarded annually since 1926 by the University of North Carolina to the school winning first place, is in possession of Durham High School for the third time. The staff of 1933-34, headed by Mary Toms Newsom, editor-in-chief, and James Cousins, business manager, deserves credit for this recognition.

In reviewing the activities and achievements of the year, the members of the Class of 1935 realize that in the future they will look back with pride on the innovations which have been made this year.

The Student Council

Adviser: Mr. Quinton Holton

The Student Council of Durham High School, following the example set by its enthusiastic president, Ben Horack, got quickly into harness and gained truly surprising results. The six committees appointed by the president—namely, scholarship, student games, student problems, traffic, auditorium program, and school improvements—made many constructive changes in the school and its work.

Two representatives from each home room were chosen to form sub-committees which aided in carrying out the work.

This year, more than ever before, the student council took over problems of student and school relationship, and, as a result, it noticeably raised the morale of the whole school. Its members feel that they have gained a long step in true self-government, and that they have made a lasting foundation for further advance.

Music

Much gratitude and credit is due to Professor W. P. Twaddell, who for the past thirteen years has so ably directed the music in the Durham City Schools, and who has expended great effort in making the community musically conscious. Under his capable supervision the choral groups have gained honors which, a few years ago, seemed scarcely possible. The Glee Club this year contains one hundred energetic and aggressive musicians, who give freely of their talents for programs and concerts both in Durham and in neighboring cities. In recognition of their work, many of these students have been invited to become regular members of prominent church choirs in the city.

Professor W. P. Twaddell

Four of the choruses' most brilliant graduates are Lucille Brown '32, Euticus Renn '33, M. T. Cousins '33, and Grace Carrington, '34. Miss Brown was awarded a fellowship to the Julliard Institute in New York, where she was a favorite protégée of Madame Sembrich until the death of the great diva in the past winter. Since then, Miss Brown has made her entré into opera, in which she filled a prominent rôle. Mr. Renn is now bass soloist of the Westminster Choir of the famous Choir School of Princeton, New Jersey. This past year the Glee Club has added another member to that same choir school. Miss Grace Carrington, who had won a scholarship to the school, was admitted into the choir proper as a prominent contralto. Last but not least, Mr. Cousins was chosen as first trumpeter in the North Carolina Symphony Orchestra in which position he continues today.

Other notables in the choruses, who deserve much credit for their talent and musical ability are Katherine Mangum, Irvin Peed, Melba Pifer, Louise Boney, Linwood Turner, Ben Thaxton, and Cornelius Webster.

Individuals, however, were not the only ones to be so distinguished, for the choral groups, have likewise attained great heights. In the state contest the Mixed Chorus, Boys' Chorus, Girls' Chorus, and the Male Quartet won cups, and the Girls' Trio was given the highest rating awarded schools.

The school wishes to express to the public its sincere thanks for its generous support and earnest coöperation, and to Professor Twaddell its heartfelt appreciation for the work of which he is the guiding hand.

Under the efficient guidance of Mrs. Gholson and Dr. Blake, the debating teams participated in the twenty-third annual contest of the Aycock Triangular Debate.

Keen interest was displayed throughout the weeks prior to the event, not only by the participants but by the student body as a whole. On Friday, March 22, the negative team met Raleigh in Fayetteville, while in Raleigh the affirmative duo clashed with Fayetteville.

The Durham High debaters made an exceptionally creditable showing and represented the school admirably, but lost by a two to one decision in both cases. Not without a struggle, however, were these victories gained by the opposing teams, for Durham put up a spirited and commendable fight.

Let knowledge grow; let life be enriched.

Advisers: Miss Marguerite M. Herr, Mr. R. E. Freeman

The Walter Hines Page Literary Society, named for that distinguished North Carolinian, a pioneer in public education, has had the most successful year in its history. The programs of the society closed with the annual banquet.

Its members have been prominent in all school activities. Bernard Dworsky, Jay Hubbell, and Linwood Turner were members of the Aycock debating team. Heading other major activities are Ben Horack, Fred Rippy, Edmund Swindell, John Glasson, Bill Franck, John Newsom, and Edgar Dunham.

A beautiful loving cup, a gift of the class of 1931, is inscribed at the close of each year with the name of that member who has maintained the most outstanding record in scholarship and service to the school and to the society during his three years of membership.

WALTER HINES PAGE LITERARY SOCIETY

Blackwell Literary Society

Faciendo Facere Discrimus

Adviser: Dr. Nelson D. Blake

The members of the Blackwell Literary Society had, at the beginning of this year, a record of twenty-nine years' standing to uphold. The principal aim of this society has always been to emphasize public speaking and to develop ability in that line. Due to much well-supervised practice in making public appearances, the members of the Blackwell Society have gained poise and ease.

These boys have been able, by holding night meetings, to arouse a spirit which has been invaluable in furthering the work of the society.

As an incentive to do better work, the boy who has been voted the most valuable member has his name engraved on a perennial plaque, which has been introduced this year and will repose in one of Durham High School's trophy cases.

Lila Markham Brogden Literary Society

The Truth will make you free.

Adviser: Miss Louise T. Watkins

The year's work and play of the Lila Markham Brogden Literary Society was begun with a lively and exciting initiation party held at "Marigold Inn" in honor of the new members. The atmosphere of companionship begun at this gathering marked the activities of the society throughout the year.

Originality and native talent were given free rein in the programs, which were composed, for the most part, of short plays, recitations, debates, and talks. For variety, during the second semester, the Lila Markham Brogden and the Cornelia Spencer Societies held a joint meeting which, members of both organizations agreed, was very enjoyable.

Many of the girls have procured the society pins, which will, in future years, remind them of the delightful contacts formed during their high school days.

All things excellent are as difficult as they are rare.

Adviser: Miss Lelia Hampton

The Cornelia Spencer Literary Society has a record of past achievements which it is difficult to surpass. Yet its members not only uphold past standards, but establish new customs and records which make the work more interesting and worthwhile.

The large membership affords a wealth of talent which is of value in preparing interesting programs; it offers an excellent opportunity to form diversified contacts and to develop leaders.

Many members have been prominent in school activities. Among these Betty Lloyd Tandy, a member of the 1935 Aycock Debating Team, and Roberta Hardee, winner of the 1934 Woman's Club Recitation Contest, are outstanding.

Mary Toms Newsom won the medal given by the society for the most outstanding work in 1934.

CORNELIA SPENCER LITERARY SOCIETY

O. Henry Literary Society

We go to seek on many roads.

Adviser: Mrs. E. S. Swindell

THE O. HENRY LITERARY SOCIETY can honestly say that all the years since its organization have been successful. This year has been no exception to that rule. After the new members had been duly initiated at a special party given in the Duke Park, each found her place and entered eagerly into the activities of the group.

The O. Henry's common aim with the other literary societies is to offer training in public speaking, reading, dramatics, and parliamentary procedure. Their success in achieving these aims is proved by the fact that they have given to the school many speakers, singers, and debaters whose talents have been further developed through their work in this club.

In presenting the regular bi-weekly programs, the members found it practical to separate into three groups—Seniors, Juniors, and Sophomores. The smaller groups could work together more easily, presenting more enjoyable and worthwhile programs. In addition to taking part in this regular work, each member displayed a greater interest and made some individual contribution to the general progress of the group. It can be truly said that every girl has done her part toward assuring the success of this society.

The O. Henry is proud of such outstanding members as Marjorie Davis, Sue Moore, and Doris King whose work in dramatic recitation has been most commendable; of Inez Leathers, whose musical ability is great; and of Alice Rowe, who has so efficiently aided Miss Lewter in the library.

In order to encourage more active participation in the work, Mrs. Swindell, the adviser, offered a medal to that senior whose work for a period of three years was voted by her fellow-members, which has played an important part in making this organization outstanding, to be most worthwhile. A spirit of friendly competition has thus been aroused.

The friendly spirit, enthusiasm, and energy of the O. Henry members are qualities which cannot help but carry them far. Having completed another year of successful venture, they are looking forward to those ahead when they will still uphold the standards and ideals learned through their literary society work.

O. HENRY LITERARY SOCIETY

Julian S. Carr Literary Society

Adviser: Mr. H. T. Foster

THE CARR LITERARY SOCIETY was organized in September, 1928, under the adviserships of Mr. W. T. Taylor. At that time it was named for the late Mr. Julian S. Carr, pioneer of Durham, founder of the hosiery mills of the city, and prominent benefactor of Trinity College in its early days. There were, at that time, eighteen members who worked together so actively and energetically that they gave their society an impetus which has assured her permanent success.

The Carr Literary Society of 1935 has just completed a year of equal achievement. Working with Mr. Foster, the members have taken a real interest not only in the work of their own society, but also in the undertakings of the entire student body. They have tried to arouse a keen spirit of sportsmanship in every phase of school life and work, and they have succeeded admirably.

The aims of this group have always been, since the time of its first organization, to further public-speaking ability and to familarize itself with parliamentary procedure. Accordingly, at the regular bi-weekly programs frequent debates, instructive talks, and varied discussions of interest to the students have been made. In this way, since the meetings are conducted according to the correct parliamentary procedure, both these principles are constantly put into practice. In addition, these boys learn to become better students, better citizens, and better business men.

The pleasure derived from membership in the Carr Literary Society is not its only benefit, nor is it the greatest. For, having become familiarized with the principles, ideals, and standards of such a group, the members are better prepared to meet, with intelligence and ease, situations in public life. The members of this group feel that they are more nearly fitted to face the world and to accept their responsibilities as citizens.

Athena Literary Society

Hodie Non Cras.

Adviser: Mrs. G. B. Egerton

The members of this society have carried out the ideals of culture and knowledge established by the followers of the grey-eyed Athena, the Greek goddess of wisdom and learning.

In accordance with this theme, the members have, through their programs and outside work, laid great stress on the cultural arts. The stories of several great operas and the lives of modern musicians have been studied, and other varied topics of interest and value to the students have been discussed.

The ingenuity and enthusiasm of this small group has more than made up for its lack of size. The Athena Literary Society feels well gratified with the success of their organization.

Adviser: J. L. Woodward

As the loyalty of the Greek athletes and scholars carried their native land to a higher plane of civilization, so the loyalty and coöperation of the Carmichael Literary Society, have been of value to Durham High. Support of its school's activities in the fields of athletics and scholarship has ever been encouraged by this group of boys.

Programs are arranged to encourage all activities, to embrace all interests, and to give each member an opportunity for self-expression. Working with Mr. Woodward, these boys have been able to derive much benefit from their membership in the society. Because of it, they feel themselves better prepared to accept their responsibilities as citizens.

Adviser: Miss Belle Hampton

The Southgate Literary Society, under the leadership of Miss Belle Hampton, the adviser of the society since its birth, has had many interesting and stimulating programs this year. These programs have been along various lines: debates, recitations, pantomines, plays, and book reviews.

In addition to the literary programs there have been several delightful social meetings: one at the Y. W. C. A.; one at the home of Mira Barber, one of the members of the society; and one at the University Lake, near Chapel Hill.

Grace Carrington, one of our members, who left Durham High School in November to join the Westminster Choir of Princeton University, won the gold star last year for the most outstanding work.

Three of the members have entered the Woman's Club Declamation contest. They are: Josephine Mangum, Martha Beck, and Cecelia McClenny.

Art Club

Adviser: Mrs. J. B. Mason

The Art Club, directed this year by Mrs. J. B. Mason, has done much to further the art work in the school. The students enrolled have derived no little benefit from the work which they have done.

Various projects, among which were leather work and woodcarving, have been organized and successfully carried out by the members. These undertakings have not only furthered their artistic abilities but also enabled them to venture into wider fields of art.

The enthusiasm and talent of its members and the ready coöperation and willing assistance of Mrs. Mason have combined to make this year one of the most successful in the history of the Art Club.

The Library Council

Adviser: Miss Florine Lewter

The Library Council has, throughout the five years since its organization, done a great deal to encourage the students as a whole to use to the best advantage the excellent library which is at their disposal. In order to carry out this aim most effectively, each member of the Council is assigned a daily period during which she acts as an assistant to Miss Lewter. In this way, the girls receive invaluable training and much practical experience, and in turn help to make the library render a greater service to the students.

In addition, the members hold bi-weekly meetings at which they discuss various books and their authors and receive further valuable instruction from the librarian.

Readers Club

Adviser: Mr. H. T. Gibson

In the fall of 1933, Mr. Gibson, feeling that there were many students who would welcome the opportunity of developing good reading habits and of learning more about books, their authors, and their background, organized the Readers Club. The newly formed society met with instantaneous success. Through discussions and research, the members have become well acquainted with many of the classics and with modern literature, and have developed a real interest in good books.

This club is unique in that it has one member living in the Guernsey Islands. This member, Kathleen Ashe, contributes to the society programs through cards and letters describing conditions at her island home.

Adviser: Mrs. Belle C. Gholson

Since the development of character and citizenship has always played an important part in education, the Current Events Club, which has chosen this principle as its aim, has been of invaluable aid to Durham High boys. Mrs. Gholson, working with this group of students, has inspired in them a sense of the fitness of practical standards, wholesome habits, and high ideals.

Through reading the printed page, the members have made a study of every-day nation-wide activities and have learned much about the life of today; they have acquired a sense of the Fatherhood of God and the Brotherhood of Man; and they have become actively interested in "social efficiency."

The Junior Needlework Guild

Adviser: Miss Marguerite Herr

The Junior Auxiliary of the Durham Branch of the Needlework Guild was organized in 1930 by Miss Herr. This year, the organization, under Mary Frances Buchanan, student director, and Mildred Patterson, secretary, surpassed former records.

From the 251 garment members, divided into twenty circles, each of which was headed by a leader, responsible for the collection of donations from her group, 561 new articles of clothing were gathered, and, from the 63 money members, $21.78 in cash was collected for the shoe fund.

In recognition of their service, the senior circle chairmen will receive gold Needlework Guild pins which will be presented on Award Day in behalf of the Durham Branch, by Mrs. John Sprunt Hill, its president and founder.

The circle chairmen are: Caroline Breedlove, Frances Briggs, Mary Frances Copley, Mildred Goodrich, Nancy Laprade, Eva Nachamson, Claire Price, and Mary Lee Ramsay, Seniors; Frances Borland, Doris King, Virginia Mason, Helen Noell, Grace Plyler, and Betty Lloyd Tandy, Juniors; and Frances Crum, Martha Lewis, Lucy Morehead, and Carol Seely, Sophomores.

Le Cercle Français

La directrice: Mademoiselle Ann S. Hunrichouse

Le Cercle Français est pour les élèves qui aiment la langue française et qui veulent en apprendre plus. Cette année, sous la surveillance de la nouvelle directrice, Mademoiselle Humrichouse, les membres se sont decidés à étudier une comédie moderne. Ce livre, "Ces Dames aux Chapeaux Verts," est l'histoire de la vie dans une provence de France.

Après Noël, il y avait des séances, auxquelles les membres se sont amusés par chanter des chansons françaises, par raconter de petites histoires, et par présenter la comédie, "Le Petit Chaperon Rouge."

Le cercle est très content d'avoir une directrice qui a demeuré en France et qui sait si bien les coutumes de ce pays.

DESPITE THE FACT that Coach Stuessy was faced with the task of developing a squad of inexperienced players into a winning team, he turned out a group of players who fought with unexpected success, an indomitable fighting spirit and exceptional team work making up for the lack of individual stars on the team.

Durham opened the season against Oxford High on September 14. Though rather slow in getting started, Coach Stuessy's protegés flashed power in the second half which gained for them a lead of 21-0. This game was enough to convince the formerly dubious public that Durham was to be reckoned with in the race for Eastern and State Championship honors.

On the following Saturday a game scheduled with Chapel Hill failed to develop, and the Bulldogs were forced to retain their power until the next weekend. Releasing their pent-up strength against High Point's Purple Panthers, they emerged a 7-2 victor.

Winston, Durham's next foe, was met and defeated on October 5. This battle was one of the Bulldog's most fiercely contested victories; Winston succumbed by the slight margin of 7-6. Invading Virginia for an engagement with Danville, the Bull City eleven again proved their mettle by gaining a 13-0 victory.

In the next game, in which Durham began her conquest of the Eastern Conference, Goldsboro was turned back 13-0, and, on the following weekend, our eleven ran rough-shod over Rocky Mount, running up a score of 26-7. Having played listlessly throughout the first half, they displayed real ability in acquiring so wide a margin in the last half hour of play.

Charleston, our next opponent, was rated a heavy favorite by most sports critics, but the Bulldogs upset the traditional dope bucket and obtained a well-earned 7-6 victory.

Returning to continue their conquest of Eastern honors, they next defeated Wilmington by a score of 26-7. Thus the stage was set for a magnificent battle between Raleigh and Durham for the Eastern State Championship Title. Both teams, having been previously undefeated, entered the contest with a firm resolve to win.

The Durham warriors, bolstered by a well-attended pep-meeting, played a brilliant game to subdue the team from the Capitol City. Durham scored in the first half and staved off a late rally to triumph 7-0.

Two weeks later Durham met Greensboro in a beautiful duel at Kenan Stadium in Chapel Hill. In the first quarter Durham drove down the field for a touchdown but failed to tally an extra point. Greensboro then unleashed a forty yard pass which was good for six points. In the third period the Bulldogs duplicated their early performance to mark up a six point lead, which was matched by Greensboro's tally late in the game. A desperate try on their part for an extra point was foiled by the alert Durham players. When the final shot pierced the air, Durham and Greensboro found themselves joint holders of the State Championship Title.

VARSITY BASKETBALL SQUAD

Basketball

THE RETURNING lettermen of last year's basketball team and a score of newcomers to the court, at the opening of the season, worked enthusiastically with Coach Stuessy to overcome the handicap offered by the loss of such former stars as Hackney, King, and Pope. The veterans of the 1934 team, Edmund Swindell, James Thomas, Perry Sloan, Foy Roberson, and Balford Hackney, formed excellent material for a nucleus around which the team was built. Several new men, among whom Markham and Hobgood were especially outstanding, arose to fill any gaps in the line-up.

Ed Swindell
Co-captain

James Thomas
Co-captain

The basketeers opened play on December 15, staging a double header with Creedmoor and Bragtown. Little resistance was offered by either team and Durham was victorious by the scores of 40-11 and 30-19 respectively. Lynchburg was next met and defeated, 33-25. In rapid succession the Bulldogs defeated Greensboro, Wilmington twice, and Rocky Mount, the latter games giving us three conference wins.

Presenting a marvelous defensive performance, the team next triumphed over Wilson 26-3. The first of their two defeats followed. Raleigh more than matched the Durhamites' excellent playing and came out a 29-24 victor.

Rocky Mount, Fayetteville, and Lynchburg succumbed by wide margins, leaving the Bulldogs with a chance for state honors provided they defeated Raleigh in a return battle. This they failed to do, going down in defeat, 13-10. Though lacking in scoring thrills, this game proved the most exciting of the year, due to the fight and determination shown by both teams.

With this second defeat by Raleigh, the basketeers closed a season in which they proved themselves well worthy of a championship which they narrowly missed winning.

SUMMARY

Games won, 13; Percentage won, 86 1/3%; Games lost, 2; Percentage lost, 12 2/3%. Total points for season: Durham, 484; Opponents, 246.

Baseball

A LARGE NUMBER of potential Dizzys, Daffys, and Babes responded to the call for baseball men issued by Coach Burke. A. Morris, Scott, Pipkins, Winston, Bruce, and Fortune, lettermen, were assisted by Puckett, D. Berini, Mitchell, Lougee, Parrish, Loftin, Fortune, Walters, and Pierce, regulars, and Elder, Bond, and Hudgins, reserves. The pitching hopes were centered around Parrish who was backed by Loftin, Hobgood, and Pierce.

In addition to their regular conference and interscholastic games, the Durham representatives have met the Wake Forest, Duke, and Carolina Freshmen. These contests have been most valuable because of the excellent experience offered the players.

Track Team

Despite the loss of several valuable men through graduation, the Track Team made a creditable showing during the 1935 season. High Point nosed out the Bulldogs by a slight margin in the State Meet to take from them the crown which they had won in 1934. Durham again ran second to High Point in the Duke Invitational Meet.

Captain S. C. Southerland and Abie Wilson were the principal scorers throughout the season, gaining more than twenty points between them at each meet. Other members of the squad were: Donald Jordan, Tyree Jones, Cecil Lucas, Pride Brown, John Woody, William Barbour, Billy Brock, Bill Newton, Lewis Pifer, and John Donald.

Boxing

DESPITE THE FACT that the record of Durham High's 1935 Boxing Team was not overly impressive, its showing was a credit to the school. Handicapped by a lack of equipment, the boys, inexperienced but willing to work, were soon rounded out into a team of game fighters by Coach Gibson and Captain Julian.

Captain Julian was ably assisted in the fighting by Luquire, Brogden, Rose, Upchurch, Spaulding, Jones, Morris, Newsom, and Earp. Luquire, who was Durham's only representative in the state tournament, did not win a championship, but performed well and made an impressionable showing.

The 1935 Boxing Team will be remembered as one whose clean-spirited fighting did much to arouse interest in a sport which is, in Durham High, still in its infancy.

Wrestling

THE WRESTLING TEAM this year came through a hard season with an exceptional record, suffering only one defeat and winning repeated victories. Giving excellent exhibitions of manly wrestling, the grapplers won a total of sixty-two points throughout the season.

Adron Morris, captain of the squad, lived up to the faith the others had placed in him by winning the state championship in the one hundred and twenty-five pound class. He also scored more points than any other individual wrestler.

Other members of the team, listed according to points scored, were: Bennie Morris, Cecil Lucas, Louis Silver, Harold Poe, Lewis Bishop, Edgar Williamson, Bill Sally, and Richard Wilbur.

Golf

For the first time in several years, Durham High School arranged a lengthy golf schedule for its tee artists, who set out in earnest to establish an outstanding record.

After several qualification matches, Arlin Stone, Foy Roberson, Albert Carr, and Stuart Alexander were chosen to compose the regular team. This quartet swept through dual meets with Greensboro, Henderson, Raleigh, and Winston-Salem with the loss of only one match. In the State contest held on the Hope Valley Course, these boys continued their excellent play, and won the team championship.

Due to the fact that all of the members of the 1935 team are Juniors, prospects for having another championship team next year are bright.

Tennis

As THE 1935 TENNIS TEAM was composed altogether of first year men, it was decidedly handicapped by the lack of an outstanding number one man; yet the players, directed by Coach Carter, worked well and turned out good results.

In the state meet, held at the University of North Carolina on April 14 and 15, Perry Sloan, who entered the singles tournament, advanced to the semi-finals where he was eliminated by Maurice Canady of Wilmington. After playing beautiful tennis in the first and second rounds, Durham's doubles team, composed of Felix Markham and Edmund Swindell, were defeated in the quarter finals by Charlotte.

Other boys taking part in dual meets were: Millard Upchurch, Gray Sherman, James Thomas, Watts Carr, and Lawrence Tomlinson.

Swimming

THE SWIMMING TEAM, newly organized by Coach Sadler, has been a most welcome addition to Durham High's athletic program. When the call was issued for swimmers, a large number of applicants turned out, and from that number the Coach selected an outstanding group of aquatic performers.

During the fall practice, most of those who had not already passed the tests won either Junior or Senior Red Cross Life Saving Emblems.

Later in the season, Dick Gaddy was chosen captain, while the following boys were designated as members of the team: Preston Fowler, Robert Korstian, John Billings, Percy Ashby, Robert Ball, and Fab Hunnicutt—swimmers, and Robert Billings—diver. Captain Gaddy was outstanding for both swimming and diving ability.

Girls' Athletics

THE ANCIENT GREEKS were proud of their great skill in all forms of sports. The moderns endeavor to follow in their footsteps, and the girls of Durham High School have done much toward achieving this goal. This year the girls have entered into more varied athletic events than formerly.

The volley-ball contest, held in the fall, was won by the Junior class. The scores were as follows:

Juniors 56	Sophomores 30
Juniors 46	Seniors 39
Sophomores 60	Seniors 32

The girls winning letters for outstanding work were: Virginia Roberts, Jimmie Southgate, Gertrude Isenhour, Connie Welsh, Louise Hughes, Ellen Whitaker, and Nellie Bordeaux. Those awarded stars were: Mary O'Brient, Eugenia Speed, Mary Barbour, Mamie Patrick, and Frances Briggs.

In the winter sport, basketball, the Senior class was victorious over the other class teams.

Juniors 18	Sophomores 14
Seniors 32	Sophomores 12
Seniors 35	Juniors 16

Those acquiring awards and making the honorary varsity were Curtis Broadwell, Lillie Duke Clements, Virginia Mason, Doris Matthews, Jeanette Snipes, Emmy Lou Williamson, Wylanta Rochelle, Louise Carol, Jimmie Southgate, Frances Briggs, Louise Richards, Mamie Patrick, Ellen Whitaker, Carol Price, and Eugenia Speed.

The swimming team was composed of Ellen Whitaker, Beth White, Ann Mills, Jessie Ormond, Lillie Duke Clements, Connie Welsh, Mary Nachamson, Eva Nachamson, Mary O'Brient, Louise Smith, Mary Barbour, Dorothy Green, and Edna Moore. All of these girls were given awards for their fine work.

Carol Price and Frances Briggs won the all school tennis tournament, for which they were given a letter and a star respectively. A tennis ladder was also arranged for each class. The top three in each case composed the class team and met with the other teams in an intramural tournament.

The most colorful of all sporting events was the annual May Day, in which students from all the city schools came to perform before the pulchritude of Durham High School. Cornelia Holloway, as May Queen, with the aid of Dorothy Cheek, Maid-of-Honor, reigned over the beautiful festival. Those attending the Queen were: Louise Richards, Margaret Holland, Mary Frances Buchanan, and Caroline Breedlove from the Senior Class; Lillie Duke Clements, Frances Borland, Billie Warren, and Mary Jean Bronson from the Junior Class; and Margaret Ann Knight, Lois Lee, Elizabeth Teer, and Mildred Whitaker from the Sophomore Class. The heralds were Jessie Ormond and Marjorie Davis, and the court jesters were Eva and Mary Nachamson.

The closing athletic event, which came in the late Spring, was the annual Field Day, in which the girls displayed their prowess as modern Atalantas.

Luck always. Tuddie.

BLACKWELL BOYS HUMBLE PAGEITES IN WORD BATTLE

Deafening Talent Breaks Loose; Silver-Toned Voices Ring Clear and True

Senior High, May 3 (PS)—On Wednesday night, May 1, 1935, an epoch-making debate was staged in the auditorium between those illustrious, enterprising, highly respected, and prodigious organizations, the Page and the Blackwell Societies.

Jay Hubbell and J. C. Rutledge, Pageites, nobly upheld the affirmative of the query: "Resolved: The New Deal has proved a failure. Woodard Russell and Nelson Strawbridge, ingenious spokesmen for the Blackwell, defended the negative with such infinite resource and sagacity that any opponent would have bowed before their mighty onslaught. Presenting, with a fine imperious spirit, their colossal, gigantic, STUPENDOUS, DYNAMIC arguments concerning this crucial governmental controversy, in fine, lucid phrases which displayed both their perspicuity and their perspicacity, the Blackwell team swept triumphantly toward victory.

The Page representatives, having tenaciously withstood the attack, accepted their defeat magnanimously.

Mrs. Gholson, Mr. Holton, and Mr. Phillips served as judges for this historic contest.

MAMMOTH PROJECT UNDERTAKEN BY STUDENT COUNCIL

School Improvements Committee Takes Action

At the last meeting of the Student Council of Durham High School, the members voted almost unanimously to back an immense project outlined by the School Improvements Committee. Three rooms in the school are in dire need of those ingenious little contraptions known as pencil sharpeners, and the ever-efficient council has voted to replace them.

At the present time, funds are not available to finance all three sharpeners, but President Horack expressed complete confidence in their ability to back the purchase of a pencil sharpener for Room 218. At some future date it is hoped the other rooms will receive similar benefit.

DISTINGUISHED SPEAKER HEARD IN AUDITORIUM

Young Grass is Subject

Professor Quinton Holton of Durham High spoke to an assembled audience of Durham High students on Friday, May third, 1935 (A.D.) on the subject of young grass. He took the grass in front of our little red school-house as an example. He stated that it is very injurious to grass to trample it down unmercifully. He then launched into a biological discussion of grass so that no one would know what he was saying.

In plain English (so the ordinary Durham High student can understand it) he stated that grass does not have as strong and as flexible a backbone as is needed to withstand the weight and pressure of the human tootsy.

BENJIE HORACK ADDRESSES STUDENT BODY

Discusses Ways and Means of Missing Classes

Benjie S. Horack addressed the student body today on "how-I-got-through-school-without-going-to-class-and-why-you-can't." The students were most fortunate to have so noted an authority discuss this subject with them and received much valuable information.

Mr. Horack stated that the easiest way to avoid classes was to get an Editor-in-Chief tacked in front of your name. (And still we can't find an editor for the Lo-Rocket!) But since there are not enough newspapers to go around, some of the students(?) will have to stick to crooning and officiating at track meets. Ben Thaxton and Pride Brown offered additional discussion of these excellent methods.

By the time the program was completed, the students had all missed half of French Class anyway, but, inspired by Mr. Horack's inspiring address, they managed to get out of English, too. Which proves to some extent how really brilliant these lads and lassies are.

Other reasons were rendered, all of which were unfortunately unheeded.

Our most honored principal rendered some announcements and denouncements, which everyone enjoyed. The principal announcement consisted of a statement that school would be adjourned at 12:30 o'clock E. S. T. next day. When the audience was quieted down and the smoke cleared away, only one chandelier and one end of one radiator were dislodged from their connections. The chandelier happened to hit Harvey Barbee on the head, so no one was injured (chandelier excluded). Among the denouncements, one stood out. This consisted of the statement that it ain't polite to make so much noise in auditorium. The program was then turned out to the fourth period class.

CAROUSO PLAYERS PRESENT SCIENTIFIC PLAY

Scene Laid in Chemistry Lab

The Carouso Players presented recently a scientific play entitled "Livengood—5oc=Goat" or "Lentz + 25c + Carter + 25c=Big Smile." For the benefit of those who did not see the play, the Lo-Rocket is going to reproduce it verbatim. This is an innovation for our paper, but we are always ready to set up precedents.

Livengood — 5oc = Goat (or Lentz + 25c + Carter + 25c = Big Smile)
By a Lo-Rocket Preporter, Esq. I

CAST

Livengood . . . . Johnson Livengood
Francis Lentz . . . . . Francis Lentz
Mr. Carter . . . . . Mr. Carter
William Phillips . William Phillips
Laughers . . . . . John Cheek, Foy Roberson, J. C. Rutledge.

Scene—A chemistry lab not far distant.

Time—Approximately 9:50; after the experiment.

Act I, Scene I (and only)

Johnson Livengood, Francis Lentz, William Phillips, and J. C. Rutledge are discussing H_2O and medicine droppers as instruments for shooting said H_2O.

Wm.: I got an idea. Let's somebody go shoot water in Mr. Carter's face.

Johnson: Why don't you do it, Pilly?

Wm.: I'll give anybody 5oc if he'll do it.

Francis: Where's your 5oc? I'll do it.

Wm.: Johnson, ya got 5oc?

Johnson: I don't think I carry such small change.

Wm.: Well, look and see.

Johnson: (Diving into his pocket) Yeah, here's a 5oc piece.

Wm. (taking it): Here, J. C., keep this till Francis squirts the water.

Francis: Wait a minute. I'm gonna hold the money, I don't trust y'all.

Wm.: Naw suh, I don't trust you either.

Francis: Well, I don't go then.

Wm. (after some more argument): O. K. You carry the 5oc. It's Johnson's anyway.

Francis: O. K. Here I go.

(He crosses to other side of room where Mr. Carter is seated. They converse in low tones for a while, then Francis squirts the water in his face, and gives him the 5oc).

Mr. Carter (Smiling): Are you at lunch first period?

Francis: Yes, I'll be down then.

Mr. Carter: O. K. We'll get the 5oc changed, and give you your 25c. (To rest of class) Anyone else want to shoot me for a quarter?

(Everyone begins laughing except Johnson. Foy Roberson gives two horse laughs, and John Cheek, who has a bad tummy-ache tries to keep from laughing, but is unsuccessful. Everyone else laughs naturally, except Johnson.)

Why Read the Lo-Rocket

After long and careful consideration, dear readers, we are prepared to give you the real low-down on why you should read the Lo-Rocket. Of course, you're probably wondering how it got here in the first place, but that's nobody's business but our own.

The main purpose of this most excellent publication is to make you read the ads. Right pretty, aren't they? Some pretty swell guys gave 'em to us, too. (Not one cent was paid for this statement!)

But since you're reading it anyway, we might as well tell you that it's supposed to be the HUMOR SECTION, so if you want to laugh, now's your chance. Mr. Freeman says we ought to label it. Well, we did!

(Editor's note: I used the editorial we, so that makes this an editorial.)

Lentz or Lentz

The Lo-Rocket staff wishes to dedicate this issue to that illustrious dynasty, the Lentz family, which is composed of Lentz the First (Julian), Lentz the Second (John), and Lentz the Third (Francis, not Mary Francis). The Lentzes have held complete control of the Cafeteria Cash Register for several years.

One Lentz, Lentz I, has passed on into the Great Beyond, and another Lentz, Lentz II, is scheduled to leave this year. The third Lentz, Lentz III, is supposed to pass on the next year, but we, personally, have our doubts. The fourth Lentz (whom we forgot to mention) that is, Lentz IV, is expected to arrive as Lentz III leaves, but since he's a she (Mary Jean, so we hear) the post may be turned over to more competent hands.

The Lentz dynasty is quite popular around D. H. S., the main reason for its popularity being that its members can't add and we usually come out on the long end of the bargain.

PRINCIPLES WHICH ENDURE

Policies must change to meet changing conditions, but sound principles endure

For nearly a half century certain fundamentals have governed The Fidelity.

IN BANKING—cooperation with customers in good times and bad; a primary regard for the safety of deposits.

IN TRUSTS—full appreciation of conservation as the first responsibility of a trustee; independence in the selection of investments for trust funds; thoughtful attention to beneficiaries as well as to property.

IN ALL RELATIONS—emphasis on quality of service designed to make this bank a constructive influence in the affairs of its customers and the business of this community.

These principles endure—They will control our course in the future as they have in the past

Spring

The wind winds slowly o'er the lea
Flowers everywhere I see
Little birdies flit about
And the little children run around, a good time is had by all and they all shout.

Little streams go streaming by
Down below the blue, blue sky,
For when trees so beautiful grow
Then Spring, that beautifullest season in the whole year must be near I know.

Humming birds go humming by
And I see the horse-flies fly
Bowing boughs bow down so low
And fresh spinach is advertised in all the newspapers.

DURHAM HIGH STUDENTS INVOLVED IN LAW SUIT

A very interesting and hotly contested law suit took place last week in the courts of Durham between the editor of the humor (?) column of one of the city's important school newspapers and a group of people including Mildred Whitaker, Ernest Byrd, Helen Noell, Jessie Ormond and several other distinguished students who were suing above mentioned editor for libel, stating that their reputation, positions, and happiness were ruined by statements set forth in said newspaper. The case involved a sum of $1,000,000 to be divided among the plaintiffs, should they win it.

TEN YEARS HENCE
1935 - 1945

Mr. R. G. Carter was recently appointed Head of the English Department of the Durham City Schools. It took him ten years to convince the public that nobody around here except him knew how to speak English, but he finally won out. (He still hasn't persuaded us, even though the "City Fathers" did fall for that seer-rup—which means syrup in Alabama!)

GIRLS' JUMP ROPE CONTEST IS HELD

The annual girls' jump-rope tournament was held yesterday afternoon on the cement in front of the school. Eleanor Stone, light-weight champ, out-jumped her heavier opponent, Mary F. Buchanan, by two jumps. She had it on the jump. By virtue of out-jumping Betty Lloyd Tandy, Frances Borland jumped into third place with a score of ten jumps. A large crowd of five spectators witnessed this inspiring spectacle of jumping pulchritude.

Urged on by their beloved coach, Miss Maude Rogers, the girls jumped their ways into the hearts of the five spectators.

Entries were: Seniors, Buchanan, Laprade, Stone, Ramsey; Juniors, Borland, Tandy; Sophomores;—can't jump. (No rope).

Field officials were: Miss Lelia Belle Hampton, Mrs. High Water Richardson, and Mrs. Belle Cutie-pie Gholson.

FESHION FLESHES

Well, Spring is finally on the way and with it all the lovely new styles that are made especially for young debutantes and sub-debutantes, and those who would like to be a debutante, even if there is no hope. The new colors are stunning—radish red, beet black, and freckle brown; also many new and different fabrics such as synthetic asparagus, unmitigated bayseed and cataclysmic cotton. All the spring and summer dresses have an upward trend, most of them being belted in at the knees and some of the more daring of New York's society are wearing neckless and armless ensembles—very ducky they are, too.

Hats are going up and down. One of the cutest tricks of the season is a hat with a button that releases 12 rabbits one at a time. Rabbits sent in plain, sealed envelopes on request—10c extra. (All colors, excluding salmon pink.)

ENGLISH CLASSES MAKE ATTRACTIVE NOTEBOOKS

All Senior English Classes have taken up, as their May project, the making of Literature notebooks on the subject of "Baby Ray," modern classical novel.

Particularly good work was done by Ernest Byrd, who gained school-wide recognition for the mediocrity of his work. He was congratulated on the pedantical (see N. Webster) qualities displayed throughout the book, especially upon the lined and unlined paper sections. His choice of magazine cut-outs was most usual, the best one being a portrait of a large man in colonial dress, designated (see above note) as Mr. Ray. The author cut it out real good, amputating only one of the gentlemen's feet. (Baby Ray's pa ain't in the story anyhow, so what difference does one foot make?)

The winner was awarded a cup and John Newsom, second place, got a saucer. Of course we realize that Mr. Newsom is only a Junior, but can we help it if he's always getting ahead of himself?

JEFF WILSON DISQUALIFIED IN MARBLE CONTEST

Rated as Professional

The coaches of the Durham High Marble Team, Homer F. Foster, J. L. Woodward, and Elmer D. Burke, today ruled Jeff Wilson, outstanding marbler, ineligible for the sesquicentennial invitational marble meet held annually at Greensboro College. His ineligibility was due to his professional standing, due to the fact that he had, in grammar school, played, on one occasion "for keeps" due to his lack of supplies, and a desire to further his marble-pushing ability.

Due to this decision on the part of the coaches, Durham High could not enter the competition. However, the championship was automatically granted to the Durham High Poodles due to the fact that they were the only ones to answer the most gracious invitation extended by Greensboro College.

To procure more supplies of toys, agates, and chalk-for-drawing-rings-on-the-gym-floor, the three coaches held an exhibition match, at which a silver offering amounting to thirteen cents and one button, (not including sales tax) was taken.

The laurels of victory went to Elmer D. Burke who gleefully exclaimed, "It was a great fight, ma, and I'm pickled tink that I won it."

DURHAM SWIMMERS OUTSPLASH WILMINGTON

Led by the brilliant performance of Neptune Daddy, Durham High's aquatic (aquatic comes from aqua, meaning water. Good word, isn't it? —ed.) performers defeated Wilmington's high-water representatives by a 43 to 34 score.

Freston Powler (known to the further initiated as Bruin, Public Enemy, no. 1) showed up well in the dog paddle to take that event easily. Hill Pepperson did some nice paddling to place well in the overhand splash.

The diving contest was especially thrilling as Hick Taddy (or was it Baddy?) missed his step and landed flat on his stomach, splashing a tremendous amount of water from the pool. (The water had to be turned on to fill the pool again.) The ever-efficient Professor deBruyne raised his umbrella, to save the crowd from ruin, but, despite this protection, Epperson's new swimming trunks got all splashed.

Coach Waddler was well pleased with the team's fine showing.

RIGID LUNCH LINE INSTALLED AT SCHOOL

Brown and Barbee Chosen Line Captains

As a result of the lunch line committee meeting held yesterday, an entirely new system has been planned and will be put into effect in the near future.

The new system is one of rules and regulations adopted to suit the student body. At the ringing of the first bell all Senior homerooms will march slowly down the hall following the chalked line on the floor to lunch. They will be led by their respective home-room teachers. After the Senior homerooms, the others follow in much the same fashion except that the home-room teachers march behind in order to encourage the undergrads on to lunch. All those who talk, slouch, or otherwise disfigure the line will go without lunch for the day. Each day the Seniors will be allowed to march first. This new system is based on the military style.

The old lunch line system proved inferior because so many students felt the urge to vacate their places in favor of ones nearer the lunch, but Pride Brown and Harvey Barbee, recently appointed line captains, will take this matter in hand. This strict and rigid discipline of the lunch line is expected to prove popular with all D. H. S. students.

DURHAM DEFEATS SQUASHBURG IN MEET

Presenting an impregnable defence, the Durham High Tiddledy-winkers defeated the Squashburg boys by a score of 599 to 46 in a breath-taking encounter last night. Captain R. Brooks, right tiddle for Durham, was high scorer with 200 points. Gluck Uckenson, left wing for Squashburg, was his team's outstanding star.

As a result of this victory, D. H. S.'s tiddledy-winkers will meet Jerkwater Center for the Championship of Podunk County. Coach Pilliam Towell Waddell is planning a rigid training schedule for his squad. He expresses confidence in their ability to win the championship if they don't overtrain.

BULLDOG TRACKSTERS BEST WINSOME-WALEM CINDER CHUNKERS

Captain Southerland Stars

Captain Southerland today established an all-time record in track, placing first in the four most difficult events: the 440-hop, the 220-gallop, the 100-meter trot, and the backward running broad jump. Wabie Ilson also gave a fine exhibition of fence-jumping, capturing either high or low hurdles. (We forgot to measure.)

Pride Brown, having recently moved to Winsome, was undecided as to which team to run for and had gone well nigh 220 yards in the wrong direction before he decided to do or die for dear old alma mater. So he did, and we nearly died.

Your Lo-Rocket reporter spent the remainder of the afternoon attempting to dislodge a cinder from his eye so the other events were not seen. The report is, however, that Durham was conceded first, second, third, fourth (we could go on indefinitely) places when Jones tossed the javelin into the weeds where it could not be found. Likewise, had Jordan not stopped to tie his shoe, the Bulldogs might have won the 872½ which went to Winston-Salem.
